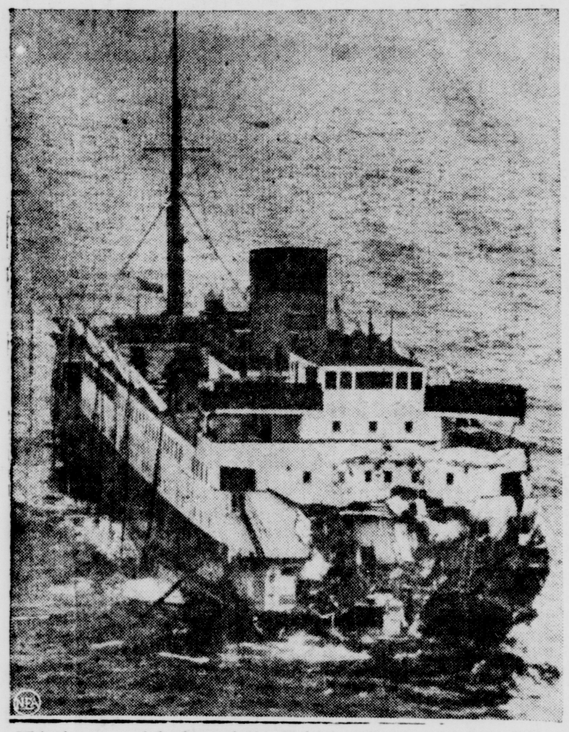
Accident at Sea



This is an aerial view of the British railways steamer, Duke of York, after an American Military Sea Transport ripped off its whole bow forward of the bridge in the pre-dawn of the North Sea. The American vessel, Haiti Victory, led a heroic rescue that ended with all but one of the 557 persons aboard both ships reported safe. The amputated section of the British ship sank. Adjournments Are Granted to Four

Men Were Arrested After Gambling Raid in City April 29

Four men arrested April 29 on gambling charges following a police raid on the Broadway Smoke Shop, 650 Broadway, were allowed adjournments today by City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Leonard Sickler, Jr., 25, of 22 Maiden Lane, and Matthew Reynolds, 66, of 31 Ravine street, were arrested for alleged violation of Section 986 of the Penal Law dealing with the keeping or operation of "books" for the registration of bets or wagers.

Peter Cerasaro, 35, of Lucas avenue extension, and Robert Vincent, 52, of 49 Dunneman avenue, were charged with violating Section 970 of the Penal Law dealing with "accepting wagers on numbers."

Scheduled to Appear

Cerasaro is scheduled to appear next before Judge Minor on May 13 and the others are due to appear on May 15. Sickler is under $500 bail and the others on $250 each.

Attorney A. J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Cerasaro, Sherwood Davis for Vincent and James G. Connelly for Reynolds. District Attorney Howard C. St. John appeared for The People.

Frederick Oderisio, 63, of Albany, who was brought to police headquarters with the others on the day of the raid was seized with a heart attack while he was being questioned. He was taken to

Injured Total Dozen, Including Two U. S. Air Force Officers; Search Goes On

Harwich, England, May 7 (AP)—Workmen found three bodies today in the mangled hull of the British steamer Duke of York, bringing to four the total of known dead from yesterday's predawn ship collision in the North Sea. Twelve other persons—including two American air force officers—were injured.

Five hundred or more passengers and crewmen were rescued from the 4,190-ton British ship after she and the 7,607-ton American freighter Haiti Victory collided 40 miles east of this southeast England port.

With only one of the known dead so far identified—an English woman—fear was expressed for the fate of two American women passengers on the Duke of York. As yet unlocated, they were Miss Gilda Jordet of Rocky Ford, Colo., and Miss Viola Larson of La Crosse, Wis. Their cabin was in the wrecked forward section of the North Sea ferry.

May Find Another Body

As the search of the ill-fated ferry progressed, a British railway official said that in addition to the three bodies already located, "It is now pretty definite that still another body will be found."

Railway officials said earlier there were unconfirmed reports that two other persons went down with the ship's bow portion. It was slashed off forward of the bridge and sunk when the two ships crashed near Galloper lightship. Pending a further check on survivors, however, the accuracy of this report could not be determined.

The British Railways said 437 passengers and 72 crewmen were aboard the Duke of York—a total of 509. Britons made up the bulk of the passenger list but there also were many Americans and Europeans among those saved.

Are in Hospitals

The injured were in hospitals at Dover, and near Harwich. The Americans there were identified only as Lts. Joseph Barhan and Joseph Donald Bacca. Doctors said Barhan's injuries were not serious. Bacca, they said is suffering from shock, and head and neck injuries "and he will be here for some days at least."

A tug towed the Duke of York stern first into Harwich harbor just before midnight, more than 19 hours after the collision. The Haiti Victory, with only a gash in her bow, had brought most of the steamer's survivors here hours earlier.

Dulles View on Trade

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday the free world should cut off all trade with Communist China, but not all of that with Iron Curtain countries in Europe. He told the House Foreign Affairs Committee trade with China should be halted "to penalize her for her aggression and make her repent of her ways." But East-West trade in Europe, he added, could show satellite nations the "advantage of closer relations with the West." On Monday, Dulles had spoken critically of "those who would seek to impose on our  allies additional restrictions upon their trade with the Communist world even in terms of non-strategic materials."

Agreement Sought In 2 Months With Spain About Bases

Washington, May 7 (AP)—U. S. officials today expressed hope that preliminary agreement may be reached in about two months to swap American aid for Spanish air and naval bases.

Authorities said negotiations are proceeding in a satisfactory manner and it is thought the Franco government, after a year of talks, probably has made a firm decision to complete the deal.

The hope here is that this may be reflected soon in a written understanding, even though more time may be required to work out specific agreements covering:

1. U. S. use of half a dozen naval and air bases on Spanish territory as a means of strengthening the defenses of Western Europe.
2. An economic aid program for Spain.
3. A military aid program for Spain.

'Turn for Better'

Secretary of State Dulles told the House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday that negotiation had recently taken "a turn for the better." He did not explain how this had come about.

James C. Dunn, veteran diplomat sent to Madrid a month ago as the new ambassador there, returned to Washington last weekend to report to President Eisenhower and Dulles on agreement prospects. He has been in conference with State Department officials this week.

Dulles said Dunn had brought

Stage Producer Claims Right of Amendment; Not Now Member of Communist Party

New York, May 7 (AP)—The producer of Finian's Rainbow and other Broadway plays declined to tell the House Un-American Activities Committee today whether he ever was a Communist.

Lee S. Sabinson, the witness, said that he is not now a member of the party.

The committee told the short, balding Fifth avenue resident that two previous witnesses had identified him as a party member.

"Have you ever been, at any time, a member of the Communist party of the United States?" he was asked.

"I am not now a member," Sabinson replied, "but I claim my privilege under the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution."

"As to whether you have ever been?"

"That's right."

Staged Big Shows

The bespectacled Sabinson, wearing a dark blue suit, white shirt and white and blue print tie, clasped and unclasped his hands as he testified.

He said some of the Broadway plays he was connected with were Home of the Brave, Trio, The Biggest Thief in Town and Counter Attack.

Sabinson said that, before reaching Broadway, he worked as an errand boy, a truck driver's helper, as a print shop employe and as editor of a moving picture company publication.

"At one time," he said, "I followed the harvest."

He had attended New York public schools and was a student for a while at City College of New York.

Contributed to Fund

Sabinson said he had made a contribution to the Progressive Citizens of America, which the committee said was cited as a subversive organization in 1947 and 1948 by the California Committee on Un-American Activities. But he declared he had no recollection of ever becoming a member through a membership card.

He had no recollection, he said, of having made a contribution to the organization after 1947.

Robert L. Kunzig, committee counsel, read an open letter to the then President Truman, protesting treatment of Philippine Island Huks, described by Kunzig as a Communist group. He said signers included a Lee Sabinson.

Can't Recall Signature

"I have no recollection that I signed that," the witness said.

Kunzig asked whether Sabinson was the main speaker in 1947 at the National Negro Congress, listed by the attorney in 1947 and 1948 as subversive.

"I was a speaker at the National Negro Congress," Sabinson said.

Kunzig inquired whether Sabinson attended a meeting in 1947 of the United Negro and Allied

Apple Blossoms Are Weekend Promise

Ulster county's apple orchards will be in full bloom this weekend, William H. Palmer, county agricultural agent, said today.

A large percentage of the blossoms are out at the present time, and by Saturday and Sunday the display is expected to be at its peak for the year, Palmer said. In most areas, the blossoms appear to be more numerous per tree than last year, he added.

Other fruit blossoms have passed their peak. Some pear and sour cherry blossoms will still be in bloom this weekend, however.

Arborio Firm Is Low Bidder for New Thruway Job

Poughkeepsie Firm Gives $10,447,243 Bid for Ohioville-Newburgh Construction

John Arborio Inc., of Poughkeepsie, contractor for the Sawkill-Kingston section of the New York State Thruway, was low bidder today at Albany on the Ohioville-Newburgh section.

Arborio's bid was $10,447,243.80, and the second lowest of the five who bid, was a joint bid by the Gull Construction Co., Inc., and Tully & DiNapoli, Inc., of Flushing, L. I., at $10,626,870.

The contract calls for construction of 16.52 miles of thruway and 7.88 miles of access roads. The state's estimate on the project was $12,504,000. One interchange and 10 access roads are to be built.

Early Work Underway

A. E. Ottaviano Inc., of Croton, on April 16 bid low at $7,349,569 for construction of the Kingston-Whiteport section, and state engineers said he will start work as soon as right-of-way rights are obtained. Engineers have already started preliminary work on that strip.

The section extending from The Onteora Trail (Route 28) is 7.61 miles long and will have 1.66 miles of access roads. The contract includes the building of a traffic interchange at Route 28 just west of the city.

Plans are not yet completed for the Whiteport—Ohioville section, which calls for the spanning of the Rondout and Wallkill river near Rosendale. This is expected to be up for bidding soon.

Arbury Is Chosen

New York, May 7 (AP)—Ward B. Arbury, Buffalo attorney, was reelected grandmaster, state of New York, today at the closing session of the 172nd annual session of the Masonic Grand Lodge. Also reelected were Raymond C. Ellis, of New York, as deputy grand master; John H. Chambers, of Utica, senior grand warden; Harry M. Ketcham, of Farmingdale, grand treasurer; and Edward R. Carman, New York, as grand secretary. All will serve for one year.

Red Forces Withdraw From Heart of Laos

Troops Use In Asia Not Supported

Key Congressmen Agree U. S. Should Extend Aid—Closed Sessions Are Held

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Key members of Congress were agreed today that the U. S. should extend new aid to threatened southeast Asia, but little support was evident for a suggestion that military forces as well as equipment be sent.

The Communist-led drive through Laos kingdom in French Indochina continued to dominate congressional consideration of President Eisenhower's proposed $5,828,000,000 foreign aid program for next year.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of Defense Wilson give further details of the global military situation today in closed sessions before the House Foreign Affairs and Senate Foreign Relations committees.

Secretary of State Dulles told both groups yesterday the government is discussing with interested governments the question of taking the new Red attacks to the United Nations. France has informed the U. S. she firmly opposes this.

Might Be UN Topic

At the UN in New York, some Asians said the situation might be brought up under Article 34 of the UN Charter. This provides that the Security Council may investigate any situation of this sort to see if it imperils world peace.

A House subcommittee simultaneously recommended that the French Indochina war be placed under UN jurisdiction. The report was prepared by four congressmen who were in Indochina when the Communists struck at Laos, gateway to Thailand and the rest of rich southeast Asia.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) yesterday told Dulles "not to foreclose the possibility of using our air and naval power" if such action proved necessary to stop conquest of southeast Asia.

No Plans for Troops

Dulles said this country has no plans to send American troops to the new trouble theatre.

Rep. Brooks of Louisiana, a ranking Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee, said it shouldn't plan to.

"We shouldn't wait on the United Nations," he said in an interview, "we should send equipment at once to Laos, Indochina and perhaps Burma — but no

Two Reasons Given Are Overstretch of Supply Lines and Monsoon

Hanoi, Indochina, May 7 (AP)—Sizable Communist-led Vietminh units were reported withdrawing today from the heart of Laos after overrunning more than a third of the Indochinese kingdom. The move may—or may not—mean an end of the 25-day Red invasion of the peaceful little French-associated state at the back door of Thailand and Burma.

French spokesmen cautiously declined to estimate the scope of the withdrawal but said the number of rebel troops involved was impressive. The Vietminh units were pulling out of areas around the royal residence city of Luang Prabang, the French-fortified Plaine Des Jarres and Xiengkhouang to the south.

Two Reasons Advanced

Two reasons were advanced here for the Communist pullback: The Reds apparently had overstretched their supply lines in their 200-mile dash south and west from Viet Nam, another of the three Indochinese states.

They also had lost their race to overrun Laos before the seasonal monsoon rains. These are now beginning with ever-mounting force.

Whether or not the enemy movement northward develops into a general withdrawal, the threat to Laos had lessened and possibly even ended for the present.

French Army spokesmen, however, did not exclude the possibility that the Vietminh may yet stage a do-or-die assault on Luang Prabang, 275 miles southwest of Hanoi, or the strongly fortified plaine Des Jarres.

Some Still Encamped

Some rebel forces still were encamped around the residence town of King Sisavang Vong and the plain, 70 miles to the west. Thus far, however, they have steered clear of an attack on either place. French-Laotian patrols, penetrating as much as 15 miles into areas where the rebels supposedly were concentrated, returned without firing a shot.

The Vietminh also appeared to be stalled in the area south of Xiengkhouang, 90 miles south of

2 Battleships Hit Wonsan Harbor, Communist Guns

Pounding Begins After Dive Bombers Raid Metal Plant in Northeast

Seoul, May 7 (AP)—The mighty battleship New Jersey and the cruiser Bremerton steamed boldly into Wonsan harbor on Korea's east coast today and bombarded the battered Communist port and communications hub for the second time in three days.

Big guns of the two warships and an escorting destroyer opened up a few hours after dive bombers from the carriers Princeton and Valley Forge heavily damaged an important Red metal processing plant in northeastern Korea, 100 miles from Siberia.

Sea and air forces provided virtually the only action. Fighting along the twisting 155-mile battle front was at a virtual standstill.

Artillery Positions Shelled

The New Jersey's 16-inch rifles poured shell after shell into Communist artillery positions ringing the rubbled city. The Bremerton and destroyer Twining bombarded communications targets as well as gun batteries.

The New Jersey and Bremerton, supported by planes of Task Force 77 pounded the Wonsan area Tuesday.

Planes from the Princeton and Valley Forge Wednesday demolished the main transformer station at Komdock silver and lead processing plant northwest of the Communist port of Songkin, the navy announced.

Corsairs and Skyraiders flew through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire "so heavy we could get out and walk on it" to bomb the key metal plant.

Pilots said bombs landed squarely on several buildings and touched off three secondary explosions which could have been ammunition stores.

Warplanes Grounded

Low clouds grounded many allied warplanes Thursday, but 23 Sabre jet fighter-bombers bombed a Red troop concentration at Singye, northwest of Chorwon in western Korea. Pilots reported 26 buildings destroyed.

Fourteen Japan-based B-29 Superforts dumped 140 tons of bombs on a 130-acre troop and supply area at Tokchon in northwest Korea Wednesday night.

Night-flying B-26 bombers dropped 16 tons of explosives on a Communist airfield at Onjong,

Weather Man Says Atomic Blasts Are Not to Blame

New York, May 7 (AP)—Don't blame the atomic test blasts for the abnormal rainfall this year, says Ernest J. Christie, head of the New York Weather Bureau.

He said any number of persons believe the Nevada explosions are responsible.

"Everywhere I go, they toss the question at me," he told a reporter who was asking the same question.

Christie put it this way:

"If rain were caused by any additional dust or chemical particles put into the air because of atomic explosions, the pattern of rain would be consistently in the path over which this material is carried by the upper air wind flow.

"But that's not the case. The

Plan Alters Early Stand On Captives

Allies Ask Immediate Time for Top-Echelon Review—First Major Break

Panmunjom, May 7 (AP)—The Communists today offered a new compromise plan to break the Korean truce deadlock, bowing to allied insistence that no prisoners of war who refused to go home be taken out of Korea.

The allies immediately asked time for top-echelon study.

The eight-point Red plan also proposed a five-nation neutral commission as caretaker for 48,500 Red prisoners who refuse to go back to communism. Both sides previously have suggested one nation for that job.

The new proposal is a reversal of the Reds' earlier demand that these prisoners be sent bodily to the neutral country.

Even though the Reds made it clear the allies must accept all or nothing, this appeared to be the first major break since the truce talks reopened April 26 in an effort to agree on exchange of prisoners, last major barrier to an armistice.

Harrison Statement

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief allied delegate, said:

"This is an important proposal  that merits careful and considerable thought.

"Our major decisions must be made by the governments themselves."

The next meeting is scheduled for 11 a. m. Saturday (9 p. m. Friday EST).

Harrison gave no clue as to official UN reaction. He said any comment he might make would be premature.

The Red plan contains two concessions to allied demands:

1. A five-national neutral repatriation commission to take custody—in Korea—of the Reds who won't go home. The Reds suggested Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia and India.
2. A total of four or six months rather than nine for those prisoners to hear Red explanations and perhaps decide to go home. At the end of that time, the future of those remaining would be decided by a political conference of warring nations, as the Reds have demanded.

Would Drop Nomination

Should the allies accept the Red proposal, they would drop their previous nomination of Pakistan as a single neutral custodian. They first proposed Switzerland and Sweden. The Reds turned down both, but included them in the Thursday.

If the five-member commission plan were adopted, India undoubtedly would play a key role. Poland and Chechoslovakia were nominated by the Communists to a separate neutral-nation armistice supervisory commission and Sweden and Switzerland were the allied choices to the same commission.

The Communist offer on the time for processing prisoners provided that those wanting to go home would be sent back within two months and disposition of the others would be settled in four months.

Previously, the Reds had asked for the initial two months, plus one month to transport unwilling prisoners to a neutral state plus six months for their disposition—a total of nine.

Period Is Proposed

The allies had proposed a two-month period to settle the fate of all prisoners.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il also reserved a right to go back to the Communists' earlier proposal if the allies do not accept the new one. This called for sending balky POWs to a neutral state.

Even should the negotiators agree to it or something close, there undoubtedly would be days and probably weeks more of working out details.

Almost all the 24-minute session was taken up by Nam Il, the chief Red negotiator, in presenting the new plan.

The Communist plan provided:

1. Within two months after a truce, both sides will exchange prisoners willing to go home. These number about 84,000 North Koreans and Chinese in allied hands and about 13,000 allied captives in Communist camps, of which about 3,000 are known to be Americans.
2. The creation of a neutral na-

De Gaulle Withdraws His Support of Political Party

Paris, May 7 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle once more was a lone figure on the sidelines of French public life today as he scuttled his ultra-conservative political party after its shellacking in recent local elections.

The tall, 63-year-old hero of World War 2 announced last night that his followers—most important, 84 deputies in the National Assembly — could continue any political actions they wished, but under their own names only.

He emphasized that officially the Gaullist RPF—the Rally of the French People—was no longer a political party.

Instead, said "Le Grand Charlie," he would return to his original crusade for the "regeneration" of France. The RPF now becomes an "advance guard for regrouping the people to change the regime."

The inference was obvious—de Gaulle, apparently, still hoped that eventually the French would get fed up with their multitude of parties and frequent changes of government and would turn to him as the "strong man."

It was not yet known how the 84 still-faithful Gaullist deputies would line up in the complicated French political picture. The general—up to now the hope of the far right—advised his followers to move left and think more about social problems.

French observers generally agreed that the 84 deputies and the general's 50 supporters in the French Upper House, the Council of the Republic, probably would

The section extending from The Onteora Trail (Route 28) is 7.61 miles long and will have 1.66 miles of access roads. The contract includes the building of a traffic interchange at Route 28 just west of the city.

Plans are not yet completed for the Whiteport—Ohioville section, which calls for the spanning of the Rondout and Wallkill river near Rosendale. This is expected to be up for bidding soon.

Arbury Is Chosen

Red Forces Withdraw From Heart of Laos

Key Congressmen Agree U. S. Should Extend Aid—Closed Sessions Are Held

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Key members of Congress were agreed today that the U. S. should extend new aid to threatened southeast Asia, but little support was evident for a suggestion that military forces as well as equipment be sent.

The Communist-led drive through Laos kingdom in French Indochina continued to dominate congressional consideration of President Eisenhower's proposed $5,828,000,000 foreign aid program for next year.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of Defense Wilson give further details of the global military situation today in closed sessions before the House Foreign Affairs and Senate Foreign Relations committees.

Secretary of State Dulles told both groups yesterday the government is discussing with interested governments the question of taking the new Red attacks to the United Nations. France has informed the U. S. she firmly opposes this.

Might Be UN Topic

At the UN in New York, some Asians said the situation might be brought up under Article 34 of the UN Charter. This provides that the Security Council may investigate any situation of this sort to see if it imperils world peace.

A House subcommittee simultaneously recommended that the French Indochina war be placed under UN jurisdiction. The report was prepared by four congressmen who were in Indochina when the Communists struck at Laos, gateway to Thailand and the rest of rich southeast Asia.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) yesterday told Dulles "not to foreclose the possibility of using our air and naval power" if such action proved necessary to stop conquest of southeast Asia.

No Plans for Troops

Dulles said this country has no plans to send American troops to the new trouble theatre.

Rep. Brooks of Louisiana, a ranking Democrat on the House Armed Services Committee, said it shouldn't plan to.

"We shouldn't wait on the United Nations," he said in an interview, "we should send equipment at once to Laos, Indochina and perhaps Burma — but no

Two Reasons Given Are Overstretch of Supply Lines and Monsoon

Hanoi, Indochina, May 7 (AP)—Sizable Communist-led Vietminh units were reported withdrawing today from the heart of Laos after overrunning more than a third of the Indochinese kingdom. The move may—or may not—mean an end of the 25-day Red invasion of the peaceful little French-associated state at the back door of Thailand and Burma.

French spokesmen cautiously declined to estimate the scope of the withdrawal but said the number of rebel troops involved was impressive. The Vietminh units were pulling out of areas around the royal residence city of Luang Prabang, the French-fortified Plaine Des Jarres and Xiengkhouang to the south.

Two Reasons Advanced

Two reasons were advanced here for the Communist pullback:

The Reds apparently had overstretched their supply lines in their 200-mile dash south and west from Viet Nam, another of the three Indochinese states.

They also had lost their race to overrun Laos before the seasonal monsoon rains. These are now beginning with ever-mounting force.

Whether or not the enemy movement northward develops into a general withdrawal, the threat to Laos had lessened and possibly even ended for the present.

French Army spokesmen, however, did not exclude the possibility that the Vietminh may yet stage a do-or-die assault on Luang Prabang, 275 miles southwest of Hanoi, or the strongly fortified plaine Des Jarres.

Some Still Encamped

Some rebel forces still were encamped around the residence town of King Sisavang Vong and the plain, 70 miles to the west. Thus far, however, they have steered clear of an attack on either place. French-Laotian patrols, penetrating as much as 15 miles into areas where the rebels supposedly were concentrated, returned without firing a shot.

The Vietminh also appeared to be stalled in the area south of Xiengkhouang, 90 miles south of

Pounding Begins After Dive Bombers Raid Metal Plant in Northeast

Seoul, May 7 (AP)—The mighty battleship New Jersey and the cruiser Bremerton steamed boldly into Wonsan harbor on Korea's east coast today and bombarded the battered Communist port and communications hub for the second time in three days.

Big guns of the two warships and an escorting destroyer opened up a few hours after dive bombers from the carriers Princeton and Valley Forge heavily damaged an important Red metal processing plant in northeastern Korea, 100 miles from Siberia.

Sea and air forces provided virtually the only action. Fighting along the twisting 155-mile battle front was at a virtual standstill.

Artillery Positions Shelled

The New Jersey's 16-inch rifles poured shell after shell into Communist artillery positions ringing the rubbled city. The Bremerton and destroyer Twining bombarded communications targets as well as gun batteries.

The New Jersey and Bremerton, supported by planes of Task Force 77 pounded the Wonsan area Tuesday.

Planes from the Princeton and Valley Forge Wednesday demolished the main transformer station at Komdock silver and lead processing plant northwest of the Communist port of Songkin, the navy announced.

Corsairs and Skyraiders flew through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire "so heavy we could get out and walk on it" to bomb the key metal plant.

Pilots said bombs landed squarely on several buildings and touched off three secondary explosions which could have been ammunition stores.

Warplanes Grounded

Low clouds grounded many allied warplanes Thursday, but 23 Sabre jet fighter-bombers bombed a Red troop concentration at Singye, northwest of Chorwon in western Korea. Pilots reported 26 buildings destroyed.

Fourteen Japan-based B-29 Superforts dumped 140 tons of bombs on a 130-acre troop and supply area at Tokchon in northwest Korea Wednesday night.

Night-flying B-26 bombers dropped 16 tons of explosives on a Communist airfield at Onjong.

Weather Man Says Atomic Blasts Are Not to Blame

New York, May 7 (AP)—Don't blame the atomic test blasts for the abnormal rainfall this year, says Ernest J. Christie, head of the New York Weather Bureau.

He said any number of persons believe the Nevada explosions are responsible.

"Everywhere I go, they toss the question at me," he told a reporter who was asking the same question.

Christie put it this way:

"If rain were caused by any additional dust or chemical particles put into the air because of atomic explosions, the pattern of rain would be consistently in the path over which this material is carried by the upper air wind flow.

"But that's not the case. The

Plan Alters Early Stand On Captives

Allies Ask Immediate Time for Top-Echelon Review—First Major Break

Panmunjom, May 7 (AP)—The Communists today offered a new compromise plan to break the Korean truce deadlock, bowing to allied insistence that no prisoners of war who refused to go home be taken out of Korea.

The allies immediately asked time for top-echelon study.

The eight-point Red plan also proposed a five-nation neutral commission as caretaker for 48,500 Red prisoners who refuse to go back to communism. Both sides previously have suggested one nation for that job.

The new proposal is a reversal of the Reds' earlier demand that these prisoners be sent bodily to the neutral country.

Even though the Reds made it clear the allies must accept all or nothing, this appeared to be the first major break since the truce talks reopened April 26 in an effort to agree on exchange of prisoners, last major barrier to an armistice.

Harrison Statement

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief allied delegate, said:

"This is an important proposal  that merits careful and considerable thought.

"Our major decisions must be made by the governments themselves."

The next meeting is scheduled for 11 a. m. Saturday (9 p. m. Friday EST).

Harrison gave no clue as to official UN reaction. He said any comment he might make would be premature.

The Red plan contains two concessions to allied demands:

1. A five-national neutral repatriation commission to take custody—in Korea—of the Reds who won't go home. The Reds suggested Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Czechoslovakia and India.

2. A total of four or six months rather than nine for those prisoners to hear Red explanations and perhaps decide to go home. At the end of that time, the future of those remaining would be decided by a political conference of warring nations, as the Reds have demanded.

Would Drop Nomination

Should the allies accept the Red proposal, they would drop their previous nomination of Pakistan as a single neutral custodian. They first proposed Switzerland and Sweden. The Reds turned down both, but included them in the Thursday.

If the five-member commission plan were adopted, India undoubtedly would play a key role. Poland and Chechoslovakia were nominated by the Communists to a separate neutral-nation armistice supervisory commission and Sweden and Switzerland were the allied choices to the same commission.

The Communist offer on the time for processing prisoners provided that those wanting to go home would be sent back within two months and disposition of the others would be settled in four months.

Previously, the Reds had asked for the initial two months, plus one month to transport unwilling prisoners to a neutral state plus six months for their disposition—a total of nine.

Period Is Proposed

The allies had proposed a two-month period to settle the fate of all prisoners.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il also reserved a right to go back to the Communists' earlier proposal if the allies do not accept the new one. This called for sending balky POWs to a neutral state.

Even should the negotiators agree to it or something close, there undoubtedly would be days and probably weeks more of working out details.

Almost all the 24-minute session was taken up by Nam Il, the chief Red negotiator, in presenting the new plan.

The Communist plan provided:

1. Within two months after a truce, both sides will exchange prisoners willing to go home. These number about 84,000 North Koreans and Chinese in allied hands and about 13,000 allied captives in Communist camps, of which about 3,000 are known to be Americans.

2. The creation of a neutral na-

Faces were grim when these captured American soldiers were marched through streets of Seoul, Korea, in July, 1950, under banner which proclaimed the Red cause as righteous and attacked U. S. De Gaulle Withdraws His Support of Political Party

Paris, May 7 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle once more was a lone figure on the sidelines of French public life today as he scuttled his ultra-conservative political party after its shellacking in recent local elections.

The tall, 63-year-old hero of World War 2 announced last night that his followers—most important, 84 deputies in the National Assembly — could continue any political actions they wished, but under their own names only.

He emphasized that officially the Gaullist RPF—the Rally of the French People—was no longer a political party.

Instead, said "Le Grand Charlie," he would return to his original crusade for the "regeneration" of France. The RPF now becomes an "advance guard for regrouping the people to change the regime."

The inference was obvious—de Gaulle, apparently, still hoped that eventually the French would get fed up with their multitude of parties and frequent changes of government and would turn to him as the "strong man."

It was not yet known how the 84 still-faithful Gaullist deputies would line up in the complicated French political picture. The general—up to now the hope of the far right—advised his followers to move left and think more about social problems.

French observers generally agreed that the 84 deputies and the general's 50 supporters in the French Upper House, the Council of the Republic, probably would

Farley Puts Blame On Lack of Leaders For Party Slump

Yonkers, May 7— (AP) James A. Farley told fellow Democrats last night that the party is suffering "slow disintegration" of its power in New York state" "as the result of absentee leadership."

"We have reached a point," he said, "where there is a grave danger that we may become a minority party with little influence."

Farley gave his political views for the annual dinner of the Ninth Ward Democrats in the First Assembly district of Westchester county.

The former state and national Democratic chairman and postmaster general said he did not want to "impugn the motives of our present leadership in the state," but he added:

"Our state organization has been permitted, by its leadership, to drift in the waters of complacency."

Farley continued:

"To drill political soldiers, leadership must be on the job all the time. You cannot conduct the affairs of a great political party by proxy or telegrams or telephone. You cannot issue orders and directions, and have them carried out by a mere wave of the hand.

Slow in Every District

"The Democratic organization in this state, in the counties north of the Bronx line, must be built up in every election district. There are districts in the state that list members of the county committee who are members in name only. They never function, and in some places they are merely used so that their proxies can be given to the county chairman to enable him to maintain control of the city, town or village in that organization."

In discussing "absentee leadership," Farley said "the men who lead must work with their full time, their full capacities and their unflagging determination to keep alive the tradition of our party. * * *"

Farley claimed major achievements by his party under three Democratic governors of New York state, the late Alfred E. Smith, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sen. Herbert H. Lehman.

He said reforms under these governors must make Democrats "swell with pride." He then asked, if this is so, "why do we face such an uncertain future, why have the Republicans gained the ascendancy and held it, though it is our party that has done so much for common man?"

Yes and No

Many historians claim that the state of Washington was not named for the first President of the United States, but for Captain Robert Gray's sloop.

Plot Revealed to Install Red As Defense Secretary of U. S.

New York, May 7 (AP)—House investigators have turned up testimony that the Communist Party once had a military specialist lined up for the job of defense secretary in event of Red revolution in America.

Robert Gladnick, an ex-Communist and now an AFL organizer in Ohio and Kentucky, said yesterday he had a part in a prewar Red campaign to build up the party's military resources.

He told the House Committee on Un-American Activities that Irving Charles Velson, a New York iron worker, headed the party's military program, and "was to become secretary of defense, come the revolution."

Velson took the stand later and called Gladnick's story "kind of fantastic." Velson wouldn't answer questions about any Communist connections, past or present.

Gladnick, organizer for the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union, said Communists in the 1930's were encouraged to enter the armed forces to learn to handle weapons in anticipation of revolt.

Planned Military Infiltration

His own job, Gladnick said, was to distribute Communist literature among men and officers of the fleet. He said pretty girls were used on both coasts to hand out material when the fleet was in.

Members of the Young Communist League (YCL), he said, infiltrated the prewar Citizens Military Training Corps to prepare for eventual entry into the National Guard or the armed forces.

Gladnick said Velson used the party name "Charlie Wilson," and was in charge of this work.

The House Committee came out of its third day of New York hearings with an armload of names given by cooperative ex-Communists as people they had known in the party.

The committee got 41 names from Gladnick, 24 names from Mrs. Abe Burrows, wife of the comedian, 66 names from Mrs. Dorothy K. Funn, a Brooklyn school teacher.

Gorney Cut Off

But it ran into some not-so-friendly witnesses yesterday, too, including song writer Jay Gorney, who wouldn't talk about whether he had been a Red, but tried to sing a song he wrote about the First Amendment (free speech).

The committee sharply cut off his vocalizing.

Actor Lionel Stander, who plays tough guy and comic roles, flared up under questioning, declaring that "just to be mentioned before this committee is like the Spanish inquisition."

"You may not be branded, but you come away a little singed," he said.

Stander said he was not a Communist "now or yesterday," but he declined to say if he ever had been. He said he had been cleared of such charges by the air force and a Los Angeles county grand jury.

Information about the reunion and association may be had by writing to William W. Hawkins, executive secretary, 12th Armored Division Association, 1086 Geneva avenue, Columbus 8, Ohio.

Refuses to Answer

Movie actor Lionel Stander holds finger to his head as he listens to a question during appearance before House Committee on Unamerican Activities in New York, May 6. He told probers he is not now a Communist but declined to tell the committee whether he ever was a Communist party member between 1935 and 1948. He also said he would decline to answer "anything else you ask me along those lines."

Farley Puts Blame On Lack of Leaders For Party Slump

Yonkers, May 7— (AP) James A. Farley told fellow Democrats last night that the party is suffering "slow disintegration" of its power in New York state" "as the result of absentee leadership."

"We have reached a point," he said, "where there is a grave danger that we may become a minority party with little influence."

Farley gave his political views for the annual dinner of the Ninth Ward Democrats in the First Assembly district of Westchester county.

The former state and national Democratic chairman and postmaster general said he did not want to "impugn the motives of our present leadership in the state," but he added:

"Our state organization has been permitted, by its leadership, to drift in the waters of complacency."

Farley continued:

"To drill political soldiers, leadership must be on the job all the time. You cannot conduct the affairs of a great political party by proxy or telegrams or telephone. You cannot issue orders and directions, and have them carried out by a mere wave of the hand.

Slow in Every District

"The Democratic organization in this state, in the counties north of the Bronx line, must be built up in every election district. There are districts in the state that list members of the county committee who are members in name only. They never function, and in some places they are merely used so that their proxies can be given to the county chairman to enable him to maintain control of the city, town or village in that organization."

In discussing "absentee leadership," Farley said "the men who lead must work with their full time, their full capacities and their unflagging determination to keep alive the tradition of our party. * * *"

Farley claimed major achievements by his party under three Democratic governors of New York state, the late Alfred E. Smith, the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sen. Herbert H. Lehman.

He said reforms under these governors must make Democrats "swell with pride." He then asked, if this is so, "why do we face such an uncertain future, why have the Republicans gained the ascendancy and held it, though it is our party that has done so much for common man?"

Yes and No

Many historians claim that the state of Washington was not named for the first President of the United States, but for Captain Robert Gray's sloop.

Plot Revealed to Install Red As Defense Secretary of U. S.

New York, May 7 (AP)—House investigators have turned up testimony that the Communist Party once had a military specialist lined up for the job of defense secretary in event of Red revolution in America.

Robert Gladnick, an ex-Communist and now an AFL organizer in Ohio and Kentucky, said yesterday he had a part in a prewar Red campaign to build up the party's military resources.

He told the House Committee on Un-American Activities that Irving Charles Velson, a New York iron worker, headed the party's military program, and "was to become secretary of defense, come the revolution."

Velson took the stand later and called Gladnick's story "kind of fantastic." Velson wouldn't answer questions about any Communist connections, past or present.

Gladnick, organizer for the AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union, said Communists in the 1930's were encouraged to enter the armed forces to learn to handle weapons in anticipation of revolt.

Planned Military Infiltration

His own job, Gladnick said, was to distribute Communist literature among men and officers of the fleet. He said pretty girls were used on both coasts to hand out material when the fleet was in.

Members of the Young Communist League (YCL), he said, infiltrated the prewar Citizens Military Training Corps to prepare for eventual entry into the National Guard or the armed forces.

Gladnick said Velson used the party name "Charlie Wilson," and was in charge of this work.

The House Committee came out of its third day of New York hearings with an armload of names given by cooperative ex-Communists as people they had known in the party.

The committee got 41 names from Gladnick, 24 names from Mrs. Abe Burrows, wife of the comedian, 66 names from Mrs. Dorothy K. Funn, a Brooklyn school teacher.

Gorney Cut Off

But it ran into some not-so-friendly witnesses yesterday, too, including song writer Jay Gorney, who wouldn't talk about whether he had been a Red, but tried to sing a song he wrote about the First Amendment (free speech).

The committee sharply cut off his vocalizing.

Actor Lionel Stander, who plays tough guy and comic roles, flared up under questioning, declaring that "just to be mentioned before this committee is like the Spanish inquisition."

"You may not be branded, but you come away a little singed," he said.

Stander said he was not a Communist "now or yesterday," but he declined to say if he ever had been. He said he had been cleared of such charges by the air force and a Los Angeles county grand jury.

12th Division Reunion

The 12th Armored Division Association will hold its seventh annual stateside reunion at the Statler Hotel, Detroit, Mich., August 27 through August 30. Information about the reunion and association may be had by writing to William W. Hawkins, executive secretary, 12th Armored Division Association, 1086 Geneva avenue, Columbus 8, Ohio.

Refuses to Answer

Movie actor Lionel Stander holds finger to his head as he listens to a question during appearance before House Committee on Unamerican Activities in New York, May 6. He told probers he is not now a Communist but declined to tell the committee whether he ever was a Communist party member between 1935 and 1948. He also said he would decline to answer "anything else you ask me along those lines."

CONGRESS NEEDS IKE FOR '54

The new lawmakers in Washington hardly have had time to break off admiring their names on their office doors, but it's already the season to worry about keeping them there.

The 1954 congressional elections are critical for the majority Republicans. Their hold on the Senate is 48 to 47, with Senator Morse, the independent, filling out the roster. The GOP margin in the House is 221 to 210, with one independent and three vacancies.

Not much of a turnover would be required to put one or both of the two houses back in Democratic hands. A House majority is 218.

The three vacancies, in Illinois, South Carolina and Kentucky, are in districts normally Democratic. Furthermore, in the 1952 elections, the GOP picked up three House seats in Virginia and one in North Carolina. These four will be extremely hard to hold.

With the marked exception of 1934, two years after Franklin D. Roosevelt's first election, the trend in off-year elections has been toward the minority party. Louis Bean, well-known election statistician, once calculated that on the average this pickup for the minority ranged from 25 to 30 seats. Any such result next year would give House Democrats a comfortable advantage.

Roosevelt's personal popularity, plus the collapse of GOP organization after the 1932 outcome, accounted for the 1934 reversal of election form. President Eisenhower today enjoys the same kind of popularity, and might also upset the pattern.

But there are two questions. One is whether that popularity will maintain itself at high level and thus keep its great potential for 1954. No one, of course, knows the answer to this.

The second is whether the President will bring that popularity to bear directly by stumping the nation for the congressional ticket. Already he is under considerable pressure to do just this.

The lawmakers are beginning to indicate strongly that they want him on the hustings. Eisenhower has been conferring recently with Leonard W. Hall, the new GOP national chairman, and by this early attention has shown his awareness of his party's problem. But he has given no sign he will take to the stump.

As a loyal party man and a believer in "team" operation, the President probably is predisposed to make the effort. It's just possible he might wish to see some evidence that the lawmakers are earning his help. Up to now the record is pretty bare on this score, but the big tests of support for the administration lies close ahead.

Picnic time is fast approaching. There'll be new places to go, new goodies for the spread, new inspirations from the out-of-doors—and the same old bugs.

HONK! HONK!

Turkey can teach the United States a thing or two. In Istanbul, better known under its old name of Constantinople, it is forbidden to blow an automobile horn. When a driver forgets this ordinance, he is effectively reminded of it by being made to pay a seven dollar fine on the spot. This information comes from a man who should know, Dr. Fahrettin Kerim Gokay, mayor of Istanbul, who is visiting New York city.

The horn could be useful and occasionally is. There are times when it is important. Too often it is used as a substitute for the brake, or as an expression of annoyance when two or three cars are held up momentarily by a traffic light. It is arguable that if horns were taken away, drivers would have to be more careful and fewer accidents would ensue.

The country with the highest standard of literacy is not the United States, as we Americans would like to believe, but Finland. According to the United Nations Educational and Scientific Organization 99 per cent of the Finns can read and write. In the United States three per cent of the population over 14 is illiterate.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

GLADIATORS FOR PEACE

My old friend, Karl von Wiegand, is a reporter of the old school, which means that he regards an event of the moment as a continuing development in the history of man.

I therefore noted keenly Von Wiegand's reference to the contest for credibility between Eisenhower and Russia (whoever governs there): "The Kremlin in the Pravda article used typical Asiatic tactics which all Asians understand—that of turning Eisenhower's bold spearpoint against himself and, directly and by implication, falsely charging that America, not Russia, is a threat to world peace."

The Russians have conducted a peace campaign since 1946. They organized the Stockholm Peace Petition; they have used their vast propaganda organizations in every country in the world to advocate peace. True, during this peace crusade, they have made war in China, in Iran, in Germany, in Korea, in Indo-China. But they have employed natives and not Russians; they have given the impression of a people's movement rather than an imperialist adventure.

The point needs to be made that the Russians have succeeded in creating the impression that they favor peace, and that the United States is actually creating conditions favorable to war. No American effort to counteract this Russian propaganda has been successful.

President Eisenhower, in his speech on foreign policy, laid down the American maximum peace terms. The Russians replied in two ways: by a lengthy article in "Pravda," on April 25, and by an expansion of the Far Eastern War into Laos in Indo-China.

The Russians, as Marxists, employ the identical words that we do, but the meaning is different. For instance, by peace, President Eisenhower and every American means an end to war, a restoration of the normal commercial and diplomatic relations among nations, disarmament on an accepted program and a recognition of the rights of peoples to governments of their own choosing.

By peace, the Russians mean a changed world of no boundaries, no nations, no races, no separaiton of human beings by religious or philosophic concepts. All human beings would be one people in one world governed out of the Kremlin until government would wither away altogether. There will be no coercion, no force, no use of power—that is eventually. Meanwhile, men must fight and die, particularly those who are not Russians, to achieve this end.

And the only country that is preventing this heaven on earth from immediate accomplishment is the United States!

Here then is the conflict and, just as Von Wiegand wrote, in Asia, the Russian rather than the American view makes sense because of long repetition and the genuine dislike of the Asiatic for the Western European and the Americans who are regarded as exploiters.

American and British propaganda has up to now been not only futile but fatuous. If Chester Bowles suggested that the Voice of America tone down its anti-Communism, it could be that its efforts irritated rather than informed. The Russians devoted themselves to one line of propaganda, peace, and peace as defined above. We have become involved in a defense of errors. To the Asiatics, and to many Europeans, we have lost face because we lost China and permitted ourselves to be tricked in Korea.

The "Pravda" article raised this question:

". . . Those wishing to see in Eisenhower's speech a real striving for peace cannot but ask why was it necessary for the President in a speech calling for peace to threaten unequivocally with the possibility of an atom war. Is it possible that such kind of arguments will make the speech of the President about peace more convincing? In any case, as regards the Soviet Union, such arguments, or speaking more plainly such threats, have never attained and cannot attain their purpose."

This has a clear meaning to those who live in fear of the atom bomb and who also fear that whatever happens, the war is more likely to be fought on their soil than on either American or Russian terrain. The Indians have that in mind all the time and therefore they favor peace at any price, which is cheaper than having a major war fought in their country.

So far, the Russians have been very effective in their propaganda. If this country is to make up for lost time, it needs a different approach to a psychological offensive. Certainly, a nation always on the defensive does not present an appearance of courage or even wisdom.

That Body of Yours

VITAMIN B-12

About five years ago the vitamin receiving most attention from physicians and the vitamin most used by physicians themselves was vitamin B-1. Physicians found that it helped patients and also themselves in obtaining more nervous control and overcoming fatigue.

Today physicians are using and prescribing vitamin B-12 because they find it a nerve builder and also a blood builder. It would be safe to say that in pernicious anemia (where red blood cells are reduced in number and in hemoglobin—iron) vitamin B-12 is replacing to some extent liver and liver extract and also folic acid.

In the American Journal of Medicine, New York, Drs. C. L. Conley, T. W. Green, R. C. Hartmann, and J. R. Krevans report their experience with more than 100 patients with pernicious anemia treated with vitamin B-12 only, for 12 to 40 months. Many had previously received injections of liver extract, but others were in relapse and had no previous treatment.

Vitamin B-12 injections were as effective as refined liver extract in producing and maintaining clinical and blood improvement. No evidence was found that patients with uncomplicated pernicious anemia need any treatment (therapy) other than vitamin B-12. Vitamin B-12 by mouth was effective provided the dose was 100 times larger than the amount used and needed where muscular injections were given. In other words, until the most effective or maximum dose by mouth has been demonstrated, the muscular injections should be used.

From their experience with over 100 patients, it has again been shown that while folic acid is an efficient blood builder, as efficient as liver and liver extract, it does not rebuild the nervous system as do liver and liver extract. On the other hand, a suitable dose of vitamin B-12, injected into muscle, not only builds the blood (increasing red cells and hemoglobin) but also builds up the nervous system as do liver and liver extract.

This dose given every six weeks "appeared to be adequate for satisfactory maintenance treatment and protected patients against relapse of the blood and nervous system. Vitamin B-12 seems preferable to liver extract in the treatment of perniciou anemia because it causes less discomfort at the site of the injection, does not give rise to untoward reactions, and is less expensive."

Vitamin B-12 is not inexpensive, but the fact that one injection can build up and maintain the blood for six full weeks brings it within financial limits. In the British Medical Journal, Dr. W. Walker and R. B. Hunter report treating 15 patients with untreated pernicious anemia with a single dose into the muscle of 1 mg. vitamin B-12; in most of these cases, the full effects were maintained for not less than 8 weeks.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—The great surprise in the first 100 days of Republican administration White House-congressional relations is that the widely predicted split between President Eisenhower and Senate Majority Leader Robert A. Taft of Ohio has not come off. If anything, the two GOP leaders are drawing closer and closer all the time.

Washington wags suggest that this may be due in part to the fact that both like golf, and that Taft is slightly the better golfer. That gives him a necessary superiority. And as long as the President allows the senator to beat him on the golf course, every little political thing will be all right.

The number-one congressional policy of President Eisenhower is obviously a determination to have no White House-congressional feuds. Every other President before him has had such fights. But President Eisenhower has stated repeatedly that he recognizes the Congress as an equal and coordinate branch of the federal government. He will not infringe on its rights.

Whether the President can maintain this position for four full years, and whether the Congress will reciprocate in respect for his leadership and constitutional responsibilities, it will take more than 100 days to prove out.

So far the President has gone out of his way to avoid disputes with senators and congressmen. This has been interpreted as a sign of weakness in some quarters, and a lack of leadership.

The lack of leadership may be due more to lack of a complete program to present to the Congress for action, however. And the weakness may develop into a source of great strength if the President can convert cooperation into unity of purpose.

Differences With Lawmakers

In this first 100 days, the President's temptation to start throwing a big stick around may have been great many times. The differences between the President and many Republicans in Congress make a long list:

Senator McCarthy's methods in trying to stop shipments to Red China; Senator McCarthy's methods in demanding State Department loyalty files; Representative Reed's insistence on an immediate tax-cut bill; Representative Reed's amendments to renewal of the trade agreements act; Representative Velde's feints at investigating communism in the churches; first efforts to curb the President's reorganization powers; the mix-up over funds for school aid in defense areas; the mix-up over funds for a council of economic advisers; the curtailment of public housing funds; the differences over foreign policy discussed previously in this series.

In the opposite direction, there has been considerable griping by congressmen over the way Republican patronage has been handled by the White House. But this may be due more to political inexperience in the White House than anything else.

There is also in the making a considerable row over Republican congressional demands that every vestige of Democratic personnel and thinking be purged from the federal government.

All these disputes might be added up to indicate a constantly widening split in Executive-Legislative relations. But by dint of patience and tact on the part of the President, it has not developed into open warfare.

"The best thing Congress could do to help President Eisenhower now," observed one old-timer on the Washington scene, "is to pass the appropriation bills for next year and then go home."

The reasoning behind this comment is that since the President has given the Congress no complete program of his own to keep it busy, the idle hands on Capitol Hill have devoted most of their time to running investigations and stirring up trouble.

Legislative Program

One recent tabulation showed some 20 investigations going in the Senate and over 60 proposed in the House, though not all the latter have been approved. These investigations made a lot of news. But when an effort is made to add up their accomplishments in the first 100 days, the result is more of a revelation on the previous mess in Washington than it is constructive building for the future.

President Eisenhower's 11-point legislative program for this year, agreed upon with congressional leaders Feb. 9, offered the lawmakers no real work load. But it is notable that only one item on this program—authority to reorganize the federal government—has been cleared by Congress in the first 100 days.

Since that time the President has asked Congress to create a commission to study federal-state government relationships, to restudy the McCarran-Walter immigration law, and to admit 120,000 refugees a year for the next two years. Also half a dozen important authorizations expire before June 30.

So it is really more of a 20-point program at present.

It is somewhat remarkable that in the first 100 days, the only major trouble that the Democrats have given the new administration has been on the tidelands oil bill. The leaders here are a group of the more progressive Democrats—Anderson of New Mexico, Hill of Alabama, Douglas of Illinois, Humphrey of Minnesota and so on.

For most other issues, the Democrats as a group have given the President more support than the Republicans. And the Democrats have been sitting back enjoying the scramble between the Republican congressmen and the President.

This unsual situation cannot, of course, go on forever. The 1954 congressional elections are now only 18 months away. The record of the Republican Party, which will determine whether the GOP remains in control of Congress for the second half of the Eisenhower first term, still has to be written.

By next fall, it is believed the executive branch of the administration should have its ducks in a row. Then in case the President wants to call Congress back in special session, or in case the Congress wants to come back of its own accord, the Republicans will have their chance to show what they can do.

Question Is: How Do British or Other Nations Justify Use of Shipping in Red Trade?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 7—Gradually and with unashamed frankness, the British are conceding that they think it is more important for them to continue their trade with Communist countries than to help the United States put economic pressure on the Soviet Union even as the latter supplies to Red China guns and munitions with which to kill American boys in Korea.

But, what is much worse, the evidence now indicates that the Department of State feels helpless to change the allied point of view. This has just been uncovered in testimony before congressional committees, and it points up as a paramount issue whether the Eisenhower administration intends to use its diplomatic influence effectively and whether Congress will use its appropriations to make sure that an embargo on all trade with Communist countries is inaugurated.

Great Britain today sends no strategic materials to Red China but admits sending them to the Soviet Union and hides behind the fiction that Communist Russia is not "legally" an aggressor.

The other day a letter appeared in a Washington newspaper signed "diplomat" which was written presumably by someone connected with one of the British Commonwealth embassies. He said:

"The British have to live with—and, to a certain extent, by—trade with the Soviet bloc. They sell rubber to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the European satellites, and refuse to sell it to Communist China, as a part of a policy which recognizes their need for grains and timber from the European Soviet bloc; which looks to the 'legal' situation in which Red China is an 'aggressor' under the UN resolution but the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is not; and which strives to achieve a workable and sensible balance.

"Like all compromises, the balance they strike may seem inconsistent, and may, in fact, be inconsistent or stupid or wrong. But it is their official policy in a matter of great delicacy."

Surely this is a matter of "great delicacy" for the parents and relatives of the more than 130,000 American boys who have become casualties in Korea. One wonders when the British Government will discover that it is more important to put economic pressure on the Communist countries and bring the "cold war" to an end than it is to seek profits no matter where they can be obtained.

Surely, also, out of the five to six billions of economic aid about to be voted by Congress to foreign countries, some few millions might be "earmarked" to buy the timber Britain needs and to absorb the freight expense from distant points and thus aid in every way to achieve the "sensible balance" the British want. It would cost $800,000,000 a year to buy up the east-west trade. The American people would gladly pay it to end the "cold war." It might even replace some other $800,000,000 item in the foreign-aid budget.

Surely to "bribe" or "induce" the British producers with American dollars cannot be less harmful if trade is to be maintained than to let them be influenced by Soviet rubles or commodities—and if money is the only consideration, perhaps the American Congress can agree to pay the expense of a complete embargo. It would be worth while to do so if American lives could be saved in Korea. For rubber is a strategic material, and when rubber is sold by Britain to the Soviet Union, everyone knows it is shipped over the Trans-Siberian railway to Red China just as certainly as if it had been sent there by boat direct.

It was Senator McCarthy who recently uncovered the scandal in foreign shipping which reveals that citizens of various countries, including Britain, are engaged in selling directly to Red China. Then, all of a sudden, the European press began to denounce "McCarthyism" with far more vigor than would normally be expected from a foreign press which has so little interest in whether subversives are being driven out of the American government. Now the "London Times" has revealed the real animus against Senator McCarthy—he is exposing the details of the improper trade with the Communists. The British newspaper says:

"The McCarthy policy, if one can dignify it by such a name, would logically lead to the stopping of all trade with the whole of that part of the world that is under Soviet influence, without regard to the strategic or non-strategic character of the goods carried. It would mean, on the trade front, a general state of war. . . .

"The idea seems to be gaining fresh hold in the United States that trade with a Communist country is in itself wrong."

To most Americans—and now President Eisenhower has agreed—the fighting in Korea is not a "police action" but a "war." And when there is a war going on, Americans have been taught to believe it is wrong to trade with the enemy. During World War 1, before America entered the conflict, Great Britain seized American vessels carrying cargoes to neutral countries because they might ultimately get to enemy countries. In World War 2, the United States and Great Britain bought up the production of neutral countries to prevent its going to enemy countries.

The UN has adopted a resolution calling on all members to refrain from aiding the aggressors. This wasn't a hair-splitting resolution which said there could be exceptions if some country wanted to make profits or if some country wanted to send her strategic materials to a country bordering on Russia. The embargo resolution was clear-cut, and the question now is how do the British and other nationals justify the use of shipping to permit trade directly or indirectly with the enemy.

On top of all this, Premier Nehru of India has announced that India does not and will not accept the UN embargo on strategic materials. How can the other UN members now allow India to remain a member of that organization? This is another question which deserves a realistic answer.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New Orleans, May 6—It is a grand coincidence that 1953, the 150th anniversary of the greatest real estate bargain in history, finds the new south positively throbbing with a vigor that startles even the southern people themselves and surely portends a new balance between the south and north. The south was persecuted by the so-called radicals of northern politics in the years after the war which in the north is called the Civil War and in the south is called the War Between the States. No Marshall Plan ever was offered the south at the expense of northern taxpayers. The best southern men, who had fought with enormous bravery well knowing the personal danger to their women and children, were suspended from citizenship even in their own states by a hot-eyed, hateful northern Congress.

Robbed, exploited, lied about and subjected to extortion and to ravishment at the hands of bewildered freedmen instigated by northern brigands, the south never surrendered in spirit although it lived largely on cotton and peanuts until the First World War. Then the climate and expanses appealed to the war-makers in Washington and military camps were spotted here and there. A new generation of southern men went to the colors and the old score was, to some extent, washed away, as the saying went, in blood.

It seems to me appropriate to review thus briefly the old situation in approaching an estimate of the new one. The south certainly is aroused now and, barring atomic war with Russia or some other disaster of mighty proportions, will assume a new status and character in the national economy and politics.

As to the political change it was plain that the south wanted a semi-Republican but not an entire Republican and for that reason supported Eisenhower. As of today, however, Eisenhower already is too Democratic and not Republican enough for this new south. He is too soft to the union rackets, possibly because he is ignorant of union practices. It should be observed that two of the most spectacular personal rebellions against the baby-sitters and housemaids social security deduction and the social security tax on self-employed persons have been kicked up by southern citizens, and women at that. These are the so-called Marshall Girls, of Marshall, Tex., and Mrs. Mary Cain, of Summit, Miss., who edits the Summit Sun, a brisk, impudent weekly paper.

Mrs. Cain is an attractive young woman with a second-degree magnolia accent, somewhat milder than the cloying Hollywood version. She actually got a hacksaw, personally sawed from the door of her publishing plant a padlock put there by the U. S. marshal, mailed it to him with a challenge to come and arrest her and is mad as a wet hen because the marshal doesn't dare lock her up in jail. She has divested herself of attachable assets and refuses to buy social security as a self-employed person.

The port of New Orleans and the great building activity are suffering from the same predatory unionism which not only disgraced the city of New York but have driven much of its seaborne commerce away. The longshoremen's union here is the same one that vitiated New York. The five-member board of commissioners of the port are fed up with the condescension of Joe Ryan, who lords it over this ambitious world port from a racket headquarters in New York. The electricians, operating engineers, glaziers and other disreputable building trades of the AF of L preying on the new building activity, running up costs and causing delays in completion without the slightest benefit to anyone but boss racketeers. Inasmuch as Eisenhower went to the AF of L for his secretary of labor and chose for that parasitic sinecure the president of a union infamous for clever extortions in legal guise, Ike has not retained all the approval which these people felt when they voted for him.

It is not possible to deal with these factors in statistical terms, but this is a rough outline of some important facts:

During World War 1 and the rise of the motor industry with its market for unskilled labor, many rural southern Negroes migrated to northern factory cities. They have no nostalgic memories nor could they be persuaded to come back. There is no effort to woo them back. On the other hand, many northern white workers, including executives and builders, have come south in a

CONGRESS NEEDS IKE FOR '54

The new lawmakers in Washington hardly have had time to break off admiring their names on their office doors, but it's already the season to worry about keeping them there.

The 1954 congressional elections are critical for the majority Republicans. Their hold on the Senate is 48 to 47, with Senator Morse, the independent, filling out the roster. The GOP margin in the House is 221 to 210, with one independent and three vacancies.

Not much of a turnover would be required to put one or both of the two houses back in Democratic hands. A House majority is 218.

The three vacancies, in Illinois, South Carolina and Kentucky, are in districts normally Democratic. Furthermore, in the 1952 elections, the GOP picked up three House seats in Virginia and one in North Carolina. These four will be extremely hard to hold.

With the marked exception of 1934, two years after Franklin D. Roosevelt's first election, the trend in off-year elections has been toward the minority party. Louis Bean, well-known election statistician, once calculated that on the average this pickup for the minority ranged from 25 to 30 seats. Any such result next year would give House Democrats a comfortable advantage.

Roosevelt's personal popularity, plus the collapse of GOP organization after the 1932 outcome, accounted for the 1934 reversal of election form. President Eisenhower today enjoys the same kind of popularity, and might also upset the pattern.

But there are two questions. One is whether that popularity will maintain itself at high level and thus keep its great potential for 1954. No one, of course, knows the answer to this.

The second is whether the President will bring that popularity to bear directly by stumping the nation for the congressional ticket. Already he is under considerable pressure to do just this.

The lawmakers are beginning to indicate strongly that they want him on the hustings. Eisenhower has been conferring recently with Leonard W. Hall, the new GOP national chairman, and by this early attention has shown his awareness of his party's problem. But he has given no sign he will take to the stump.

As a loyal party man and a believer in "team" operation, the President probably is predisposed to make the effort. It's just possible he might wish to see some evidence that the lawmakers are earning his help. Up to now the record is pretty bare on this score, but the big tests of support for the administration lies close ahead.

Picnic time is fast approaching. There'll be new places to go, new goodies for the spread, new inspirations from the out-of-doors—and the same old bugs.

HONK! HONK!

Turkey can teach the United States a thing or two. In Istanbul, better known under its old name of Constantinople, it is forbidden to blow an automobile horn. When a driver forgets this ordinance, he is effectively reminded of it by being made to pay a seven dollar fine on the spot. This information comes from a man who should know, Dr. Fahrettin Kerim Gokay, mayor of Istanbul, who is visiting New York city.

The horn could be useful and occasionally is. There are times when it is important. Too often it is used as a substitute for the brake, or as an expression of annoyance when two or three cars are held up momentarily by a traffic light. It is arguable that if horns were taken away, drivers would have to be more careful and fewer accidents would ensue.

The country with the highest standard of literacy is not the United States, as we Americans would like to believe, but Finland. 'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

GLADIATORS FOR PEACE

My old friend, Karl von Wiegand, is a reporter of the old school, which means that he regards an event of the moment as a continuing development in the history of man.

I therefore noted keenly Von Wiegand's reference to the contest for credibility between Eisenhower and Russia (whoever governs there): "The Kremlin in the Pravda article used typical Asiatic tactics which all Asians understand—that of turning Eisenhower's bold spearpoint against himself and, directly and by implication, falsely charging that America, not Russia, is a threat to world peace."

The Russians have conducted a peace campaign since 1946. They organized the Stockholm Peace Petition; they have used their vast propaganda organizations in every country in the world to advocate peace. True, during this peace crusade, they have made war in China, in Iran, in Germany, in Korea, in Indo-China. But they have employed natives and not Russians; they have given the impression of a people's movement rather than an imperialist adventure.

The point needs to be made that the Russians have succeeded in creating the impression that they favor peace, and that the United States is actually creating conditions favorable to war. No American effort to counteract this Russian propaganda has been successful.

President Eisenhower, in his speech on foreign policy, laid down the American maximum peace terms. The Russians replied in two ways: by a lengthy article in "Pravda," on April 25, and by an expansion of the Far Eastern War into Laos in Indo-China.

The Russians, as Marxists, employ the identical words that we do, but the meaning is different. For instance, by peace, President Eisenhower and every American means an end to war, a restoration of the normal commercial and diplomatic relations among nations, disarmament on an accepted program and a recognition of the rights of peoples to governments of their own choosing.

By peace, the Russians mean a changed world of no boundaries, no nations, no races, no separation of human beings by religious or philosophic concepts. All human beings would be one people in one world governed out of the Kremlin until government would wither away altogether. There will be no coercion, no force, no use of power—that is eventually. Meanwhile, men must fight and die, particularly those who are not Russians, to achieve this end.

And the only country that is preventing this heaven on earth from immediate accomplishment is the United States!

Here then is the conflict and, just as Von Wiegand wrote, in Asia, the Russian rather than the American view makes sense because of long repetition and the genuine dislike of the Asiatic for the Western European and the Americans who are regarded as exploiters.

American and British propaganda has up to now been not only futile but fatuous. If Chester Bowles suggested that the Voice of America tone down its anti-Communism, it could be that its efforts irritated rather than informed. The Russians devoted themselves to one line of propaganda, peace, and peace as defined above. We have become involved in a defense of errors. To the Asiatics, and to many Europeans, we have lost face because we lost China and permitted ourselves to be tricked in Korea.

The "Pravda" article raised this question:

". . . Those wishing to see in Eisenhower's speech a real striving for peace cannot but ask why was it necessary for the President in a speech calling for peace to threaten unequivocally with the possibility of an atom war. Is it possible that such kind of arguments will make the speech of the President about peace more convincing? In any case, as regards the Soviet Union, such arguments, or speaking more plainly such threats, have never attained and cannot attain their purpose."

This has a clear meaning to those who live in fear of the atom bomb and who also fear that whatever happens, the war is more likely to be fought on their soil than on either American or Russian terrain. The Indians have that in mind all the time and therefore they favor peace at any price, which is cheaper than having a major war fought in their country.

So far, the Russians have been very effective in their propaganda. If this country is to make up for lost time, it needs a different approach to a psychological offensive. Certainly, a nation always on the defensive does not present an appearance of courage or even wisdom.

That Body of Yours

VITAMIN B-12

About five years ago the vitamin receiving most attention from physicians and the vitamin most used by physicians themselves was vitamin B-1. Physicians found that it helped patients and also themselves in obtaining more nervous control and overcoming fatigue.

Today physicians are using and prescribing vitamin B-12 because they find it a nerve builder and also a blood builder. It would be safe to say that in pernicious anemia (where red blood cells are reduced in number and in hemoglobin—iron) vitamin B-12 is replacing to some extent liver and liver extract and also folic acid.

In the American Journal of Medicine, New York, Drs. C. L. Conley, T. W. Green, R. C. Hartmann, and J. R. Krevans report their experience with more than 100 patients with pernicious anemia treated with vitamin B-12 only, for 12 to 40 months. Many had previously received injections of liver extract, but others were in relapse and had no previous treatment.

Vitamin B-12 injections were as effective as refined liver extract in producing and maintaining clinical and blood improvement. No evidence was found that patients with uncomplicated pernicious anemia need any treatment (therapy) other than vitamin B-12. Vitamin B-12 by mouth was effective provided the dose was 100 times larger than the amount used and needed where muscular injections were given. In other words, until the most effective or maximum dose by mouth has been demonstrated, the muscular injections should be used.

From their experience with over 100 patients, it has again been shown that while folic acid is an efficient blood builder, as efficient as liver and liver extract, it does not rebuild the nervous system as do liver and liver extract. On the other hand, a suitable dose of vitamin B-12, injected into muscle, not only builds the blood (increasing red cells and hemoglobin) but also builds up the nervous system as do liver and liver extract.

This dose given every six weeks "appeared to be adequate for satisfactory maintenance treatment and protected patients against relapse of the blood and nervous system. Vitamin B-12 seems preferable to liver extract in the treatment of pernicious anemia because it causes less discomfort at the site of the injection, does not give rise to untoward reactions, and is less expensive."

Vitamin B-12 is not inexpensive, but the fact that one injection can build up and maintain the blood for six full weeks brings it within financial limits. In the British Medical Journal, Dr. W. Walker and R. B. Hunter report treating 15 patients with untreated pernicious anemia with a single dose into the muscle of 1 mg. vitamin B-12; in most of these cases, the full effects were maintained for not less than 8 weeks.

Differences With Lawmakers

In this first 100 days, the President's temptation to start throwing a big stick around may have been great many times. The differences between the President and many Republicans in Congress make a long list:

All these disputes might be added up to indicate a constantly widening split in Executive-Legislative relations. But by dint of patience and tact on the part of the President, it has not developed into open warfare.

"The best thing Congress could do to help President Eisenhower now," observed one old-timer on the Washington scene, "is to pass the appropriation bills for next year and then go home."

The reasoning behind this comment is that since the President has given the Congress no complete program of his own to keep it busy, the idle hands on Capitol Hill have devoted most of their time to running investigations and stirring up trouble.

Legislative Program

One recent tabulation showed some 20 investigations going in the Senate and over 60 proposed in the House, though not all the latter have been approved. These investigations made a lot of news. But when an effort is made to add up their accomplishments in the first 100 days, the result is more of a revelation on the previous mess in Washington than it is constructive building for the future.

President Eisenhower's 11-point legislative program for this year, agreed upon with congressional leaders Feb. 9, offered the lawmakers no real work load. But it is notable that only one item on this program—authority to reorganize the federal government—has been cleared by Congress in the first 100 days.

Since that time the President has asked Congress to create a commission to study federal-state government relationships, to restudy the McCarran-Walter immigration law, and to admit 120,000 refugees a year for the next two years. Also half a dozen important authorizations expire before June 30.

So it is really more of a 20-point program at present.

It is somewhat remarkable that in the first 100 days, the only major trouble that the Democrats have given the new administration has been on the tidelands oil bill. The leaders here are a group of the more progressive Democrats—Anderson of New Mexico, Hill of Alabama, Douglas of Illinois, Humphrey of Minnesota and so on.

For most other issues, the Democrats as a group have given the President more support than the Republicans. And the Democrats have been sitting back enjoying the scramble between the Republican congressmen and the President.

This unsual situation cannot, of course, go on forever. The 1954 congressional elections are now only 18 months away. The record of the Republican Party, which will determine whether the GOP remains in control of Congress for the second half of the Eisenhower first term, still has to be written.

By next fall, it is believed the executive branch of the administration should have its ducks in a row. Then in case the President wants to call Congress back in special session, or in case the Congress wants to come back of its own accord, the Republicans will have their chance to show what they can do.

Today in Washington

Question Is: How Do British or Other Nations Justify Use of Shipping in Red Trade?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 7—Gradually and with unashamed frankness, the British are conceding that they think it is more important for them to continue their trade with Communist countries than to help the United States put economic pressure on the Soviet Union even as the latter supplies to Red China guns and munitions with which to kill American boys in Korea.

But, what is much worse, the evidence now indicates that the Department of State feels helpless to change the allied point of view. This has just been uncovered in testimony before congressional committees, and it points up as a paramount issue whether the Eisenhower administration intends to use its diplomatic influence effectively and whether Congress will use its appropriations to make sure that an embargo on all trade with Communist countries is inaugurated.

Great Britain today sends no strategic materials to Red China but admits sending them to the Soviet Union and hides behind the fiction that Communist Russia is not "legally" an aggressor.

The other day a letter appeared in a Washington newspaper signed "diplomat" which was written presumably by someone connected with one of the British Commonwealth embassies. He said:

"The British have to live with—and, to a certain extent, by—trade with the Soviet bloc. They sell rubber to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the European satellites, and refuse to sell it to Communist China, as a part of a policy which recognizes their need for grains and timber from the European Soviet bloc; which looks to the 'legal' situation in which Red China is an 'aggressor' under the UN resolution but the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is not; and which strives to achieve a workable and sensible balance.

"Like all compromises, the balance they strike may seem inconsistent, and may, in fact, be inconsistent or stupid or wrong. But it is their official policy in a matter of great delicacy."

Surely this is a matter of "great delicacy" for the parents and relatives of the more than 130,000 American boys who have become casualties in Korea. One wonders when the British Government will discover that it is more important to put economic pressure on the Communist countries and bring the "cold war" to an end than it is to seek profits no matter where they can be obtained.

Surely, also, out of the five to six billions of economic aid about to be voted by Congress to foreign countries, some few millions might be "earmarked" to buy the timber Britain needs and to absorb the freight expense from distant points and thus aid in every way to achieve the "sensible balance" the British want. It would cost $800,000,000 a year to buy up the east-west trade. The American people would gladly pay it to end the "cold war." It might even replace some other $800,000,000 item in the foreign-aid budget.

Surely to "bribe" or "induce" the British producers with American dollars cannot be less harmful if trade is to be maintained than to let them be influenced by Soviet rubles or commodities—and if money is the only consideration, perhaps the American Congress can agree to pay the expense of a complete embargo. It would be worth while to do so if American lives could be saved in Korea. For rubber is a strategic material, and when rubber is sold by Britain to the Soviet Union, everyone knows it is shipped over the Trans-Siberian railway to Red China just as certainly as if it had been sent there by boat direct.

It was Senator McCarthy who recently uncovered the scandal in foreign shipping which reveals that citizens of various countries, including Britain, are engaged in selling directly to Red China. Then, all of a sudden, the European press began to denounce "McCarthyism" with far more vigor than would normally be expected from a foreign press which has so little interest in whether subversives are being driven out of the American government. Now the "London Times" has revealed the real animus against Senator McCarthy—he is exposing the details of the improper trade with the Communists. The British newspaper says:

"The McCarthy policy, if one can dignify it by such a name, would logically lead to the stopping of all trade with the whole of that part of the world that is under Soviet influence, without regard to the strategic or non-strategic character of the goods carried. It would mean, on the trade front, a general state of war. . . .

"The idea seems to be gaining fresh hold in the United States that trade with a Communist country is in itself wrong."

To most Americans—and now President Eisenhower has agreed—the fighting in Korea is not a "police action" but a "war." And when there is a war going on, Americans have been taught to believe it is wrong to trade with the enemy. During World War 1, before America entered the conflict, Great Britain seized American vessels carrying cargoes to neutral countries because they might ultimately get to enemy countries. In World War 2, the United States and Great Britain bought up the production of neutral countries to prevent its going to enemy countries.

The UN has adopted a resolution calling on all members to refrain from aiding the aggressors. This wasn't a hair-splitting resolution which said there could be exceptions if some country wanted to make profits or if some country wanted to send her strategic materials to a country bordering on Russia. The embargo resolution was clear-cut, and the question now is how do the British and other nationals justify the use of shipping to permit trade directly or indirectly with the enemy.

On top of all this, Premier Nehru of India has announced that India does not and will not accept the UN embargo on strategic materials. How can the other UN members now allow India to remain a member of that organization? This is another question which deserves a realistic answer.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New Orleans, May 6—It is a grand coincidence that 1953, the 150th anniversary of the greatest real estate bargain in history, finds the new south positively throbbing with a vigor that startles even the southern people themselves and surely portends a new balance between the south and north. The south was persecuted by the so-called radicals of northern politics in the years after the war which in the north is called the Civil War and in the south is called the War Between the States. No Marshall Plan ever was offered the south at the expense of northern taxpayers. The best southern men, who had fought with enormous bravery well knowing the personal danger to their women and children, were suspended from citizenship even in their own states by a hot-eyed, hateful northern Congress.

Robbed, exploited, lied about and subjected to extortion and to ravishment at the hands of bewildered freedmen instigated by northern brigands, the south never surrendered in spirit although it lived largely on cotton and peanuts until the First World War. Then the climate and expanses appealed to the war-makers in Washington and military camps were spotted here and there. A new generation of southern men went to the colors and the old score was, to some extent, washed away, as the saying went, in blood.

It seems to me appropriate to review thus briefly the old situation in approaching an estimate of the new one. The south certainly is aroused now and, barring atomic war with Russia or some other disaster of mighty proportions, will assume a new status and character in the national economy and politics.

As to the political change it was plain that the south wanted a semi-Republican but not an entire Republican and for that reason supported Eisenhower. As of today, however, Eisenhower already is too Democratic and not Republican enough for this new south. He is too soft to the union rackets, possibly because he is ignorant of union practices. It should be observed that two of the most spectacular personal rebellions against the baby-sitters and housemaids social security deduction and the social security tax on self-employed persons have been kicked up by southern citizens, and women at that. These are the so-called Marshall Girls, of Marshall, Tex., and Mrs. Mary Cain, of Summit, Miss., who edits the Summit Sun, a brisk, impudent weekly paper.

Mrs. Cain is an attractive young woman with a second-degree magnolia accent, somewhat milder than the cloying Hollywood version. She actually got a hacksaw, personally sawed from the door of her publishing plant a padlock put there by the U. S. marshal, mailed it to him with a challenge to come and arrest her and is mad as a wet hen because the marshal doesn't dare lock her up in jail. She has divested herself of attachable assets and refuses to buy social security as a self-employed person.

The port of New Orleans and the great building activity are suffering from the same predatory unionism which not only disgraced the city of New York but have driven much of its seaborne commerce away. The longshoremen's union here is the same one that vitiated New York. The five-member board of commissioners of the port are fed up with the condescension of Joe Ryan, who lords it over this ambitious world port from a racket headquarters in New York. The electricians, operating engineers, glaziers and other disreputable building trades of the AF of L preying on the new building activity, running up costs and causing delays in completion without the slightest benefit to anyone but boss racketeers. Inasmuch as Eisenhower went to the AF of L for his secretary of labor and chose for that parasitic sinecure the president of a union infamous for clever extortions in legal guise, Ike has not retained all the approval which these people felt when they voted for him.

It is not possible to deal with these factors in statistical terms, but this is a rough outline of some important facts:

During World War 1 and the rise of the motor industry with its market for unskilled labor, many rural southern Negroes migrated to northern factory cities. They have no nostalgic memories nor could they be persuaded to come back. There is no effort to woo them back. On the other hand, many northern white workers, including executives and builders, have come south in a

Ford Spends 900 Million on Firm's Expansion Plans

Detroit, May 7 (AP)—So far in the postwar period Ford Motor Co. has spent 900 million dollars in physical expansion of the industrial empire the late Henry Ford founded 50 years ago with a paid in capital of only $28,000.

Another 500 million dollars is earmarked for similar investment in the next few years.

The figures were cited by Ford executives in connection with the current observance of the company's golden anniversary. A high point in the observance was reached today in the formal dedication of the Ford Motor Co., archives.

The archives, a multi-million dollar project is designed to record in minute detail the career of Henry Ford and the huge company he founded. They are housed in the former Ford home, Fair Lane, in nearby Dearborn.

Even Romance Recorded

Millions of written and tape-recorded words, photographs, newspaper clippings, contracts, expense accounts, engineering sketches and even the love letters of Henry Ford and Clar Bryant, written before their marriage in 1888, are included in the material assembled in the archives.

The collection, Ford's grandsons explain, is intended not only to provide an intimate history of Henry Ford, his mass production and his company but also to provide an insight into life and history of the United States during the last 50 years.

Part of the huge investment for physical expansion of the Ford empire is represented in a new 80 million dollar research and engineering center, at Dearborn, on Detroit's southwestern outskirts.

A staff of some 150 engineers and scientists already is at work in the center's scientific laboratory, carrying on research in metallurgy, chemistry, physics, electronics and mechanical and atomic energy applications.

Denies Burglary Charge

New York, May 7—Vincent Williams, 40, of 307 Maverick Road, Woodstock, who has been under psychiatric examination here, pleaded innocent in General Session Court, New York, Wednesday to a charge of burglary. He is accused of breaking into a New York office and stealing five checks on November 12, 1952. Williams pleaded guilty to the charge in February. However, the court later allowed him to withdraw his plea and ordered him to Bellevue Hospital for observation. No date for trial was set at this time.

Final Meeting Is Closed on Prices For Dairy Products

New York, May 7 (AP)—The issue of price protection for dairy farmers who regularly supply the metropolitan area was argued again yesterday at a final Department of Agriculture hearing.

Farmer and milk dealer representatives testified in favor of such protection against outside producers who enter the market only when it appears profitable or convenient.

Glenn J. Gifford, chief hearing examiner of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, presided at the final hearing on proposed amendments to the federal-state milk market orders for the metropolitan New York area. The orders set prices paid to producers for milk that eventually is sold in New York city and in Nassau Suffolk and Westchester counties, N. Y.

June 8 Deadline

Gifford, ending the hearing in its 19th day, set June 8 as the deadline for filing briefs in the case. After receiving briefs from interested parties, Secretary of Agriculture Benson will issue a recommended decision on the proposed amendments. Consideration will be given to exceptions filed on the recommended decision, and a final decision will follow. The final decision, to become effective, will require approval by two-thirds of the 49,000 dairy farmers in the New York milkshed.

In the discussion yesterday of price protection for regular suppliers of the New York market, several witnesses said this protection is afforded by an equalization fee levied against buyers of cheaper milk from outside.

There was only one spokesman against the equalization fee program. He was Harry Polikoff, New York lawyer representing a group of ice cream manufacturers and one bottled milk dealer, the M. H. Renken Dairy Company. Polikoff contended that organization fees create a barrier to free competition. He said he would submit further arguments in a brief.

MEMO TO RICHARD JOHNSON, with the Navy in Korea: You ought to know, Dick, that since you went away six months ago your daughter, Judy, has been carrying on with another man. His name is Tom English, he's a grandfather and he drives a bus in Cleveland, Ohio. Their affair is wide open, and you can set your watch by it every morning five days a week, rain or shine. Every weekday Judy and her pretty mother, Barbara, 21, walk down to catch the bus, which carries Mommy to work, and Judy to a baby sitter. And when the bus comes into view, little Judy begins jumping up and down and waving and calling "Tom, Tom!" And Tom straightens up in his seat and begins tooting his horn blocks away. The other riders have come to look forward to the meeting, and wait for the family to get on. Although very fond of Tom, Judy says Daddy is still her favorite guy.

Early morning scene finds Mrs. Barbara Johnson and daughter waiting for bus.

Bus driver Tom English, a grandfather, is ready for a hard day of work after greeting his favorite passenger.

Students Get Wet In Plea for Panties

New York, May 7 (AP) — Male students at Columbia University went on a rampage last night, screaming outside women's dormitories for a shower of panties—and about all they got was rain in the face.

A sudden, heavy downpour, plus a corps of unamused cops, finally dampened the spring madness, and sent some rambunctious college boys scuttling back to their rooms like wet chickens in a thunderstorm.

But 35 policemen stayed on guard around the women's buildings through the night, just in case.

The melee, during which several steamed-up students tried in vain to crash police cordons into the girls' dorms, was a revival of last year's spasm of springtime "pantie raids" that hit many campuses.

300 in Swarm

The new outburst began just before midnight when about 300 students swarmed around the dormitory of Barnard College, Columbia's undergraduate school for women. They yelled, "throw down your panties."

Within minutes, the moon-struck mob had swelled to 800, with 1,200 spectators. The boys surged on to another girl's dorm, Johnson Hall, baying at the windows like bloodhounds.

The girls' lights went on, and windows flew up with head in curlers popping out all over the place. A few panties, garter belts and brassiers fluttered down amid wild scramblings below for the prizes.

Then the rains came. And gradually, the drenched party broke up.

Seems Obvious Reason

The supply problem seemed an obvious reason for the Vietminh withdrawal.

The invaders depend for their supplys on tens of thousands of coolies who have been packing guns and ammunition on their backs over jungle and mountain trails from Red China, 300 miles away.

The French and Loatian defenders meanwhile received a big American assist in their own supply problem. Six U. S. C-119 flying boxcars, the first of possibly two or three dozen to be sent to Indo-China under an increased American aid program, took off from Hanoi with war cargos for Laos.

The Armed Services Committee chairman, Rep. Short (R-Mo.), is in favor of using American military power, if necessary, to save southeast Asia.

To Ask Accounting

Meanwhile, there were indications Congress will ask for sharp accounting of proposed foreign aid expenditures.

Dulles said the total could not be lowered without risking "in the very near future spending more money in terms of our own national defense."

Congressmen have not obtained from Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen a firm figure on the amount of money that might be spent on overseas assistance next year. The Eisenhower Administration has asked Congress to authorize new appropriations of $5,828,000,000. Actual funds will be voted in a separate bill; and the amount often is less than the authorization. But that does not fix actual spending, since some funds voted in previous years are still on hand.

Washington, May 7 (AP)—What do governors, a senator and a President talk about when they get together on a golf course? "It was just a good sociable game, minus any business. We'd just comment on each other's game, such as 'you were in luck on that shot.'" So said Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas. The others: President Eisenhower, Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado and Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.). "We didn't keep any score," added Shivers after the rain-drenched match at Burning Tree course in nearby Maryland yesterday.

The melee, during which several steamed-up students tried in vain to crash police cordons into the girls' dorms, was a revival of last year's spasm of springtime "panie raids" that hit many campuses.

300 in Swarm

The new outburst began just before midnight when about 300 students swarmed around the dormitory of Barnard College, Columbia's undergraduate school for women. They yelled, "throw down your panties."

Within minutes, the moon-struck mob had swelled to 800, with 1,200 spectators. The boys surged on to another girl's dorm, Johnson Hall, baying at the windows like bloodhounds.

The girls' lights went on, and windows flew up with head in curlers popping out all over the place. A few panties, garter belts and brassiers fluttered down amid wild scramblings below for the prizes.

Then the rains came. And gradually, the drenched party broke up.

Red Forces . . .

Luang Prabang. Advance units of the rebel forces in that sector stabbed two days ago to within 35 miles of Laos' Mekong river border with Thailand.

Seems Obvious Reason

The supply problem seemed an obvious reason for the Vietminh withdrawal.

The invaders depend for their supplys on tens of thousands of coolies who have been packing guns and ammunition on their backs over jungle and mountain trails from Red China, 300 miles away.

The French and Loatian defenders meanwhile received a big American assist in their own supply problem. Six U. S. C-119 flying boxcars, the first of possibly two or three dozen to be sent to Indo-China under an increased American aid program, took off from Hanoi with war cargos for Laos.

The ground front was so quiet an Eighth Army briefing officer said only 30 Communist soldiers were killed or wounded in the 24 hours ending early Thursday. UN divisions on the western front reported hitting only one Chinese in overnight skirmishes.

FRUIT TREES WEATHER FLOODS — Despite floodwaters that still cover parts of Zeeland, The Netherlands, fruit trees bravely bear some blossoms. However, they aren't expected to bear any fruit because of damaging effects of salty sea water. Zeeland, one of The Netherlands' most fertile provinces is slowly being rehabilitated.

troops. We might have a certain use of seapower for blockade."

Rep. Hebert (D-La.) said he supported materiel aid but "under no circumstances let one American life be risked."

Rep. Bates (R-Mass.) said the question of actual U. S. participation should depend upon an analysis of the Communists' world strategy.

The Armed Services Committee chairman, Rep. Short (R-Mo.), is in favor of using American military power, if necessary, to save southeast Asia.

To Ask Accounting

Meanwhile, there were indications Congress will ask for sharp accounting of proposed foreign aid expenditures.

Dulles said the total could not be lowered without risking "in the very near future spending more money in terms of our own national defense."

Congressmen have not obtained from Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen a firm figure on the amount of money that might be spent on overseas assistance next year. The Eisenhower Administration has asked Congress to authorize new appropriations of $5,828,000,000. Actual funds will be voted in a separate bill; and the amount often is less than the authorization. But that does not fix actual spending, since some funds voted in previous years are still on hand.

But No Business

Washington, May 7 (AP)—What do governors, a senator and a President talk about when they get together on a golf course? "It was just a good sociable game, minus any business. We'd just comment on each other's game, such as 'you were in luck on that shot.'" So said Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas. The others: President Eisenhower, Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado and Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.). "We didn't keep any score," added Shivers after the rain-drenched match at Burning Tree course in nearby Maryland yesterday.

Local police arrested three others on lesser charges following the Broadway raid. Elting is due to appear before Judge Mino tomorrow morning and the others are due to appear Saturday.

Frederic Snyder Rotary Speaker

Speaking before the Kingston Rotary Club at its regular weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday, Rotarian Frederic Snyder, lecturer and news analyst, discussed current topics of world-wide interest and presented his observations on the relationship of these events to our present-day welfare and to the future that faces us.

In his commentary on the trend of events, he contrasted the destructive force of the atom and hydrogen bombs with the constructive possibilities of solar energy.

Headlines in the newspapers of the country showing the predominance of the letter V—a forecast made by the lecturer at the beginning of the year—were exhibited.

He concluded his very interesting informal talk with an inspiring Mothers' Day message.

Taxpayer Group Might Be Formed

At a meeting of about 60 residents of the village of Rosendale held Wednesday evening at the schoolhouse, steps were taken toward formation of a town-wide Taxpayers' Association. This action was taken by the group after John Grady, president of the Town of Esopus Taxpayers' Association, had spoken pointing out the advantages of a township association.

Several years ago the Village of Rosendale had a very active Taxpayers' Association but in recent years the organization has been dormant. The group meeting Wednesday evening sought to revive the organization and extend an invitation to other communities of the township to join in a town-wide group.

A committee was named last evening to contact the other communities of the town and invite them to join in a strong town-wide organization. On that committee is Ferdinand Feedler, Roy Constant, George Herd, Mrs. S. Reposky, Mrs. A. O'Leary, H. Schoonmaker and E. Rossler.

Mrs. Ferdinand Feedler presided at the meeting Wednesday evening.

After the committee has contacted the other communities of the town, another meeting will be called at which time an organization will be perfected and officers named.

De Gaulle . . .

split about evently into three groups.

They predicted one-third would throw in with the self-styled Independents—in reality rightwingers—loosely grouped under the banner of ex-Premier Antoine Pinay. Another third would join with the Moderate Radical Socialists and the remainder would form a new political party under a new name. This new group, these sources said, probably would work closely with the Catholic PRM (Popular Republican Movement).

Such a spit would do nothing towards clearing up the chaos of French politics. There still would be no one party in the Legislature with a majority to govern. Future French cabinets still would be made up of mutually distrustful minority parties.

After issuing his statement to the press, DeGaulle returned to his usual isolation at his villa at Colombey-L e s-Deux-Eglises, 180 miles east of Paris. His friends said he would talk with the heads of all political parties and eventually make a new announcement as to his intentions.

The general, who never has bothered to hide his distaste for politics, evently became completely fed up after his poor showing in the April 26 municipal elections.

In the big cities that Sunday, the RPF drew only 10.6 per cent of the vote. In 1947, when the party was still in swaddling clothes, they racked up 25.8 per cent. An analysis of the run-off vote in smaller towns last Sunday has not yet been made but the trend was expected to continue.

Weather Man Says

precipitation pattern isn't consistent with that idea."

He noted that in the past everything under the sun—or clouds—had been blamed for bad weather.

So What Is Cause

Some have attributed it to heavy cannonading in wartime. Others have held that disturbance of clouds by airplanes may be a factor. Atomic blasts are only the latest popular villain.

What does cause the weather?

"Our weather is caused by the movement of air masses of different types across the country from west to east," Christie said. "In the past few months, air masses have aligned themselves in such a way as to be of the rain making type.

"And don't blame the weather man," Christie added. "The weather man has nothing to do with all the rain we've had."

What is the future outlook?

Agreement Sought

the latest Spanish proposals but the secretary did not explain what they were. It has been understood in the past that the Franco government wanted the U. S. to undertake a large scale modernization of the Spanish army as one condition. Madrid reportedly has been interested also in assurances of future economic and military aid beyond the 125 million dollar program authorized by Congress to date.

The administration, due to ask Congress to reappropriate the 125 million dollars which has never been used, may also propose an additional appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

After issuing his statement to the press, DeGaulle returned to his usual isolation at his villa at Colombey-Les-Deux-Eglises, 180 miles east of Paris. His friends said he would talk with the heads of all political parties and eventually make a new announcement as to his intentions.

The general, who never has bothered to hide his distaste for politics, evently became completely fed up after his poor showing in the April 26 municipal elections.

In the big cities that Sunday, the RPF drew only 10.6 per cent of the vote. In 1947, when the party was still in swaddling clothes, they racked up 25.8 per cent. An analysis of the run-off vote in smaller towns last Sunday has not yet been made but the trend was expected to continue.

Weather Man Says

precipitation pattern isn't consistent with that idea."

He noted that in the past everything under the sun—or clouds—had been blamed for bad weather.

So What Is Cause

Some have attributed it to heavy cannonading in wartime. Others have held that disturbance of clouds by airplanes may be a factor. Atomic blasts are only the latest popular villain.

What does cause the weather?

"Our weather is caused by the movement of air masses of different types across the country from west to east," Christie said. "In the past few months, air masses have aligned themselves in such a way as to be of the rain making type.

"And don't blame the weather man," Christie added. "The weather man has nothing to do with all the rain we've had."

What is the future outlook?

Agreement Sought

the latest Spanish proposals but the secretary did not explain what they were. It has been understood in the past that the Franco government wanted the U. S. to undertake a large scale modernization of the Spanish army as one condition. Madrid reportedly has been interested also in assurances of future economic and military aid beyond the 125 million dollar program authorized by Congress to date.

The administration, due to ask Congress to reappropriate the 125 million dollars which has never been used, may also propose an additional appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Softball Loop Gives $100 to Boy Scouts

Wallkill, May 7—The Wallkill Softball League recently presented the Wallkill Boy Scouts with a check for $100 for the scout camping and activity funds. From collections taken at games during the past year the softball leaguers have built up a surplus fund which they wanted to give to some worthwhile cause.

Boy Scout Troop 76 in Wallkill is sending two boys to the California Jamboree this summer and the troop has been using various means of raising money. This additional gift from the softball league will be used toward the expenses of the scouts' summer camp. George Roach, president of the league made the presentation to Fred Terwilliger, chairman of the troop committee.

This presentation was made at the annual party recently given for the Boy Scouts by the Rose-Sheeley Post of the American Legion who sponsor the local scout troop. The third man escaped, ignoring a warning shot fired by Patrolman John Elliott.

Home after finishing a 4 to 12 tour of duty in the Old Slip precinct, the patrolman was about to get into bed when he heard glass breaking.

He ran downstairs in time to see three men leaving a delicatessen at 800 East 149th street.

Two obeyed his command to halt but the third continued to run.

At a station house the burglary suspects identified themselves as John McGrath, 18, of 537 Tinton avenue, the Bronx, and William McGraine, 19, of 37-23 56th street, Woodside, Queens. They were booked on burglary charges.

The store's owner, Frank Bloom, said $60 had been taken from the cash register.

Neither of the suspects had the $60 when arrested, police said.

Veterans Urged To Seek Property Tax Exemptions

Veterans and their dependents who have used certain state or federal money grants to purchase property may be eligible for real property tax exemptions, according to a reminder issued today by Morgan D. Ryan, state veteran counselor, and Howard C. Shurter, director, of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency.

Mustering-out pay, New York state bonus, disability compensation, proceeds of National Service Life Insurance, and certain other monies from the state and federal government can be applied toward an exemption provided the money was used to purchase real property.

Must Present Claims

Claims for exemptions of that nature must be presented to the local board of assessors in the town or city in which the property is located on or before Grievance Day, which is the second Tuesday in August, Ryan and Shurter pointed out.

Today's reminder was directed toward veterans and dependents who have recently purchased property or who have not as yet applied for the tax exemption. Those who have applied for and received exemptions in past years need not re-apply as they are continued automatically.

Persons desiring additional information and assistance in filing a property tax exemption claim may visit the Veterans Service Agency at 32 Main street, Kingston, or its branches at Ellenville, Highland, Kerhonkson and Saugerties.

12 Americans Fly To Their Homes

Travis Air Force Base, Calif., May 7 (AP)—Twelve Americans flew homeward today on the last plane of Freedom Airlift, a magic carpet from Red captivity in Korea to America.

These are almost the last of 149 Americans, some sick, some wounded who only last month were liberated from North Korean prison camps.

Two remain in Tokyo.

A four-engined C-54 transport left Honolulu last night with the 12 Americans, two Canadians and six Colombians.

It was due at this sprawling air base north of San Francisco at 11 a. m. (1 p. m. EST) today.

Thirty-eight other American repatriates arrived yesterday. Five were litter cases.

Nine started almost immediately for home by car or plane. The other 29 were to begin leaving today for military hospitals near their homes.

Holy Cross Order Receives Bequest

New York, May 7 (Special)—The late Wilbur T. Wilson, of 370 Wadsworth avenue, New York, left $36,113 to the Order of the Holy Cross, of West Park, and $121,000 to charity in all, according to a report filed here Wednesday by the State Transfer Tax Department.

The estate was appraised today at $150,075, gross value, and $139,804, net. Stocks and bonds accounted for $95,856 of the total.

The bequest to the Order of the Holy Cross represents one-third of the estate remaining after certain specific amounts have been apportioned to other legatees.

Wilson was the son of the late Thomas and Susan Amelia Thompson Wilson, and husband of the late Valeria Inez Merrill Wilson. He died on August 11, 1952.

Bivona appeared before General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente and was held without bail for pleading May 13. The first indictment charges that on February 5 Bivona, with a gun, held up Jack Perrotta, bartender, at 1617 St. Nicholas avenue, forced him and two customers into a wash room and fled with between $70 and $100. Beer Truck Leaves Road

A Hill-Trandle beer truck driven by Raymond Uresk, 21, of Rosendale, was damaged about 9:50 a. m. today when it ran off Route 32 a mile south of Tillson and turned over on its right side down an embankment, County Investigator Arthur H. Brown of the sheriff's office reported. No personal injuries were reported. The cargo, which was in kegs, cans and bottles, was transferred to another truck. Some of the bottles in cases may have been broken, Brown reported, but the kegs and cans appeared to be undamaged. The accident occurred when the right front wheel of the truck went off the pavement on to the shoulder of the road, the driver told authorities.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Bargain-conscious shoppers continued to head for the beef displays at their food stores this week amid predictions that both lamb and pork prices were going higher.

Store operators were unanimous in singling out beef as the best buy this week, as it has been for several months. By and large, prices for steaks, roasts and hamburger were at the same level as a week ago.

Other meats featured by scattered stores included veal and smoked hams.

Frying chickens were lower in a number of outlets, with cuts of two to six cents a pound.

Pork Continues Higher

There were no big increases in pork prices this week, but sales managers for several chains agreed that the trend was upward. They predicted that next week might see additional price hikes.

As for lamb, one meat specialist commented that wholesale costs had gone up about seven cents a pound in the last 10 days to two weeks. At retail, he added, that might work out at about 11 cents a pound. The increases had not been fully reflected at the retail level this week.

Egg prices showed changes both ways this week. Some stores were selling them two to four cents a dozen cheaper while others raised the price a penny or two.

Hard on Margarine

The price of butter was unchanged in most stores. Meanwhile, the margarine industry expressed concern over what the government might do with the millions of pounds of butter it has bought under the support program. S. F. Riepma, president of the National Association of Margarine Manufacturers, noted that butter had been sold at low prices to the army and given away to the school lunch program.

"We predict," he said, "that the government will soon be seeking new outlets and these outlets will take away still more of the markets for margarine."

Long List of Buys

The list of worthwhile buys in vegetables was fairly long this week. Included were tomatoes, onions, potatoes, and fresh corn. The U. S. Department of Agriculture, scanning the wholesale produce markets, also nominated peppers as a good buy, but cautioned that quality was not always good. The USDA mentioned beets, cabbage, carrots and squash as fairly good buys.

In the fruit department, strawberries were cheaper, although some stores complained about the quality. Watermelons were lower in price. Some stores said they considered oranges worthwhile purchases.

Milk prices were a bit lower in some cities, reflecting record production. A survey of the price of home-delivered milk in 25 large cities showed an average decline of six-tenths of a cent per quart since January.

Masons Gain 2,052

New York, May 6 (AP)—Membership gains during 1952 have pushed the number of Masons in New York state over the 300,000 mark. The Grand Lodge of New York State, holding its 172nd annual communication, heard a report yesterday that the state order had 302,025 members at the end of last year, a gain of 2,052 over 1951. Another report said the Masonic Foundation for Medical Research and Human Welfare had made grants totaling a million dollars since it was founded in 1948. The report said additional grants scheduled for next year will add a half million to the total. The Masonic Brotherhood Fund, earmarked for rheumatic fever research, was reported as having received contributions of $300,000 in its six-week drive earlier this year. The communication continues today and tomorrow.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Bargain-conscious shoppers continued to head for the beef displays at their food stores this week amid predictions that both lamb and pork prices were going higher.

Store operators were unanimous in singling out beef as the best buy this week, as it has been for several months. By and large, prices for steaks, roasts and hamburger were at the same level as a week ago.

Other meats featured by scattered stores included veal and smoked hams.

Frying chickens were lower in a number of outlets, with cuts of two to six cents a pound.

Pork Continues Higher

There were no big increases in pork prices this week, but sales managers for several chains agreed that the trend was upward. They predicted that next week might see additional price hikes.

As for lamb, one meat specialist commented that wholesale costs had gone up about seven cents a pound in the last 10 days to two weeks. At retail, he added, that might work out at about 11 cents a pound. The increases had not been fully reflected at the retail level this week.

Egg prices showed changes both ways this week. Some stores were selling them two to four cents a dozen cheaper while others raised the price a penny or two.

Hard on Margarine

The price of butter was unchanged in most stores. Meanwhile, the margarine industry expressed concern over what the government might do with the millions of pounds of butter it has bought under the support program. S. F. Riepma, president of the National Association of Margarine Manufacturers, noted that butter had been sold at low prices to the army and given away to the school lunch program.

"We predict," he said, "that the government will soon be seeking new outlets and these outlets will take away still more of the markets for margarine."

Long List of Buys

The list of worthwhile buys in vegetables was fairly long this week. Included were tomatoes, onions, potatoes, and fresh corn. The U. S. Department of Agriculture, scanning the wholesale produce markets, also nominated peppers as a good buy, but cautioned that quality was not always good. The USDA mentioned beets, cabbage, carrots and squash as fairly good buys.

In the fruit department, strawberries were cheaper, although some stores complained about the quality. Watermelons were lower in price. Some stores said they considered oranges worthwhile purchases.

Milk prices were a bit lower in some cities, reflecting record production. A survey of the price of home-delivered milk in 25 large cities showed an average decline of six-tenths of a cent per quart since January.

Masons Gain 2,052

New York, May 6 (AP)—Membership gains during 1952 have pushed the number of Masons in New York state over the 300,000 mark. The Grand Lodge of New York State, holding its 172nd annual communication, heard a report yesterday that the state order had 302,025 members at the end of last year, a gain of 2,052 over 1951. Another report said the Masonic Foundation for Medical Research and Human Welfare had made grants totaling a million dollars since it was founded in 1948. The report said additional grants scheduled for next year will add a half million to the total. The Masonic Brotherhood Fund, earmarked for rheumatic fever research, was reported as having received contributions of $300,000 in its six-week drive earlier this year. The communication continues today and tomorrow.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME Registered U. S. Patent Office By JIMMY HATLO

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back to events in Kingston of Feb. 16, 1831, here is an item on horse stealing: "25 Dollars reward. Stolen, from the subscriber, in the village of Kingston, Friday, the first of October, by a man whose name is unknown, a grey horse, with saddle and bridle. The man is about 5 feet 9 inches high, light complexion and had on blue clothes. He is a comb maker by profession. The horse, being a French pony, his mane lies on both sides of the neck; he is a racker; is about 13 and a half hands high, is eight years old, and has a bobtail. The saddle is old, the seat of which is torn. Whoever will conduct the horse and thief to Kingston, so that the subscriber may repossess himself of the former and convict the latter, shall receive the above reward; or 10 dollars will be paid for the return of the horse alone. Matthew Styles, Kingston, Ulster county, Nov. 17, 1830."

A reader sent me an item from the "Sample Case" from Commercial Travelers which item is dated March 1, 1849, reads in part: "Having sold my farm and I am leaving for Oregon Territory, by ox team, will offer all of my personal property to wit: "All ox teams, except two teams, 'Buck and Ben' and 'Tom and Jerry,' three milk cows, one grey mare and colt, one pair of oxen and yoke, one baby yoke, two ox carts, one iron foot of popular weather boards, one plow with would mould board. 800 to 1,000 three-foot clapboards, 1,500 10-foot fence rails; one 60-gallon soap kettle, 85 sugar troughs, made of white ash timber, one large loom, made by Jerry Wilson, 1,000 gallons of Maple syrup, two spinning wheels, 30 pounds of mutton tallow, 1,000 poles, 100 split loops, 100 empty barrels, one 32-gallon barrel of Johnson-Miller whisky, seven-year-old; 20 gallons of apple brandy, one 40-gallon copper still, some oak tanned leather, one dozen real books, two handle hooks, three scythes and cradles, one dozen wooden pitchforks, one half interest in tan yard, one 32-caliber rifle made by Ben Miller, one bullet mold, one powder horn, 50 gallons of soft soap, hams, bacon and lard, 40 gallons of sorghum molasses, six head of fox hounds, all soft mouthed except one."

This sale of items of 1849 continues with: "At the same time, I will sell my six Negro slaves, two men 35 and 50 years old; two boys 18 and 12 years old, two Mulato wenches, 40 and 30 years old. Will sell all together to same party, as I will not separate them. Terms of sale—cash in hand or note to draw 4 per cent interest, with Bob McConnell as surety. My home is two miles south of Versalles, Kentucky, on the McCouns ferry pike. Sale begins at 8 p. m. Plenty to eat and drink. J. L. Moss.—Canal Winchester Times." He certainly was blessed with worldly goods. I wonder why he wanted to give it all up and how he made out in the new Oregon Territory, that, I guess we will never know.

I was asked when Kingston High School was completed. The dedication of the new KHS took place Monday afternoon, Sept. 6, 1915. It was back on Jan. 31, of 1913 that the Board of Education decided to purchase the O'Reilly property on Broadway, opposite the city hall for $55,000. It seems there was some opposition to this purchase but the deal finally went through. Going back further to free text books which was decided upon July 10, 1902 for the city schools.

Why We Say--

From Sailing

When someone shouts "gangway" it is a sign to step out of the way and let him pass. The expression started with sailing ships where small passages were called "gangways" a contraction of the phrase "going ways." Since the pasages were narrow, the cry "gangway" meant keep out of the way.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By JIMMY HATLO

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back to events in Kingston of Feb. 16, 1831, here is an item on horse stealing: "25 Dollars reward. Stolen, from the subscriber, in the village of Kingston, Friday, the first of October, by a man whose name is unknown, a grey horse, with saddle and bridle. The man is about 5 feet 9 inches high, light complexion and had on blue clothes. He is a comb maker by profession. The horse, being a French pony, his mane lies on both sides of the neck; he is a racker; is about 13 and a half hands high, is eight years old, and has a bobtail. The saddle is old, the seat of which is torn. Whoever will conduct the horse and thief to Kingston, so that the subscriber may repossess himself of the former and convict the latter, shall receive the above reward; or 10 dollars will be paid for the return of the horse alone. Matthew Styles, Kingston, Ulster county, Nov. 17, 1830."

A reader sent me an item from the "Sample Case" from Commercial Travelers which item is dated March 1, 1849, reads in part: "Having sold my farm and I am leaving for Oregon Territory, by ox team, will offer all of my personal property to wit: "All ox teams, except two teams, 'Buck and Ben' and 'Tom and Jerry,' three milk cows, one grey mare and colt, one pair of oxen and yoke, one baby yoke, two ox carts, one iron foot of popular weather boards, one plow with would mould board. 800 to 1,000 three-foot clapboards, 1,500 10-foot fence rails; one 60-gallon soap kettle, 85 sugar troughs, made of white ash timber, one large loom, made by Jerry Wilson, 1,000 gallons of Maple syrup, two spinning wheels, 30 pounds of mutton tallow, 1,000 poles, 100 split loops, 100 empty barrels, one 32-gallon barrel of Johnson-Miller whisky, seven-year-old; 20 gallons of apple brandy, one 40-gallon copper still, some oak tanned leather, one dozen real books, two handle hooks, three scythes and cradles, one dozen wooden pitchforks, one half interest in tan yard, one 32-caliber rifle made by Ben Miller, one bullet mold, one powder horn, 50 gallons of soft soap, hams, bacon and lard, 40 gallons of sorghum molasses, six head of fox hounds, all soft mouthed except one."

This sale of items of 1849 continues with: "At the same time, I will sell my six Negro slaves, two men 35 and 50 years old; two boys 18 and 12 years old, two Mulato wenches, 40 and 30 years old. Will sell all together to same party, as I will not separate them. Terms of sale—cash in hand or note to draw 4 per cent interest, with Bob McConnell as surety. My home is two miles south of Versalles, Kentucky, on the McCouns ferry pike. Sale begins at 8 p. m. Plenty to eat and drink. J. L. Moss.—Canal Winchester Times." He certainly was blessed with worldly goods. I wonder why he wanted to give it all up and how he made out in the new Oregon Territory, that, I guess we will never know.

I was asked when Kingston High School was completed. The dedication of the new KHS took place Monday afternoon, Sept. 6, 1915. It was back on Jan. 31, of 1913 that the Board of Education decided to purchase the O'Reilly property on Broadway, opposite the city hall for $55,000. It seems there was some opposition to this purchase but the deal finally went through. Going back further to free text books which was decided upon July 10, 1902 for the city schools.

Why We Say--

From Sailing

When someone shouts "gangway" it is a sign to step out of the way and let him pass. The expression started with sailing ships where small passages were called "gangways" a contraction of the phrase "going ways." Since the pasages were narrow, the cry "gangway" meant keep out of the way.

As Pegler Sees It

surge comparable to that of the eastern youth who heeded Horace Greeley's opinion that opportunity was depleted in the east and his exhortation: "Go West." The old hatred of the north, thinly disguised with the wan humor of the question whether "Dam Yankee" was one word or two, is practically dead.

Fifteen governors from a midwestern area, which extends as far up as North Dakota, came to New Orleans for a bullpen jollification in training for the grand jubilee next October and had a wonderful time. The Louisiana Purchase is being re-examined in detail and the discovery is made that Louisiana herself was only a small portion of the whole area which Jefferson bought from Napoleon, in 1803, probably in defiance of the Constitution, for $15 million. The purchase embraced Montana, the Dakotas and Wyoming. Alan McIntosh, the publisher of the weekly Rock County Star-Herald, of Luverne, Minn., was not altogether facetious when he said, in his presidential speech here to the National Editorial Association, that people and the interests of the north were drifting southward like the precious silt from their farms.

Mississippi is raising less cotton and producing dairy stuff and beef from the steers and culls. Louisiana's culls. Louisiana is now a cattle state. Many textile plants arose in the Carolinas after the first war. Now many more have sprung up and in Georgia, too, in the vigorous coming-awake of an area whose possibilities slumbered almost half a century after the earth was scorched. The Labor Relations Board has been trying to stem this irresistible movement from tired Yankee towns to factories in the fields of the south where farmers can part-time it in the mills. The board has ordered some eastern owners to move their workers, and their families and their household goods to southern sites, all paid. We have yet to learn whether this mere order of a low-level bureaucrat will stick.

Following the elections, a fund-raising committee was appointed by President Every including Pete Gardner, Burt Lane, Egbert Riseley and Howard Umhey. Two new members, Lindsay Hoyt and Bill Riseley, joined the volunteer fire company at this time. MODENA NEWS

Modena, May 6—The 154th annual New York Methodist Conference will be held Thursday through Sunday, May 7-10, at the Trinity Methodist Church in Newburgh, presided by Bishop Frederick Newell of New York, concluding his first year as bishop. On Saturday, May 9, Youth Day will be observed at the conference when a delegation of local young folks will attend the session and also the banquet at 5:30 and the Youth Rally at 7:30. On Sunday the ordination services will be conducted and the assignment of ministers to district charges. Following the conference the Rev. and Mrs. William A. Imler and family will leave for Indiana.

Approximately 70 people from Modena and Clintondale attended the Family Night party Sunday night at the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall which was planned and directed by Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hyatt. A covered dish supper was served to the large group after which a hymn sing was enjoyed and two movies shown. The first, in the interest of Evangelism, was entitled Forward With Christ and the second dealt with Missions entitled My Name Is Han. This was the story of one Chinese family, returning to their native land, at the conclusion of World War 2, and the influence of the Christian Mission in the lives of such people.

Miss Lu Smalley, of the Clintondale section and a member of the Modena-Clintondale MYF, returned from Syracuse recently where she attended a Citizenship conference.

A number of young people from this place attended the Spring Fling conducted by members of the sophomore class of the Wallkill Central School at the gym, Friday evening. Music was furnished by the Kentucky Moonshiners.

Dedication of the new altar cloth, crocheted by Mrs. Ransel J. Wager, will be made at the Modena Methodist Church Sunday when communion services will be conducted. The work is a piece of art, being in white filet, and bearing symbols of Christianity and the letters "IHS" (In His Service) in Old English script.

The Rev. William A. Imler has completed his studies at the Yale Divinity School, and will receive a degree of Master of Sacred Theology in abstentia in June.

Members of the Modena Methodist Sunday school attended a church Sunday school rally in the Presbyterian Church in Newburgh Sunday when Ralston Young Red Cap 42 gave an interesting talk on his reconversion to Christianity. A round of applause was given the delegation from the local church as there were many representatives from a community so small. They included Herbert Winters, Jr., Arnold Andersen, Carolee and Eileen Coy, Gail Grimm, Paul Pedersen, Phyllis Winters and guest, Genevieve and Monte Smith, Patricia Pink, John Simmons, Nancy Black, Mrs. DuBois Grimm, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coy.

Opposed to Clinic

Buffalo, May 7 (AP)—The House of Delegates of the Medical Society of the State of New York says it opposes "any agreement  that might lead to the establishment of a clinic in a tax-supported, public housing project." In a resolution adopted yesterday at the society's 174th annual meeting, the delegates referred to a proposal to extend the outpatient clinic of Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York city, into the George Washington Carver Public Housing Project. The delegates also resolved that the society was wholeheartedly behind any efforts to render the best possible care to all people and was in favor of private medical insurance plans.

Buyers and Sellers Adjust To New Business Conditions

By SAM DAWSON

New York, May 5 (AP)—Prices are moving on a two-way street this week as buyers and sellers adjust to new business conditions.

Stock prices have made their best advance of the year this week—but corporate bond prices have slumped because traders think their yields are too low in a new day of dearer money.

The cost of U. S. Treasury borrowing jumped again this week to a new 20-year high on 91-day bills—and the price of Treasury bonds have slipped to record lows.

Mortgage interest rates are going up—but the government reports that fewer new homes have been started so far this spring than last. The supply of money for mortgages is tight, even though the demand for it isn't quite as high as a year ago.

Commodity prices have staged the broadest advance of the year—but in the market place price weakness is reported for such items as milk and potatoes.

Pork prices have been climbing at the butcher shop—but the supply of beef is at a record high and price bargains in that meat dot the grocery ads.

One oil company hikes the price of gasoline in some Florida cities—and other oil companies cut the price of fuel oil at Gulf of Mexico ports, both explained as seasonal developments.

The price of rubber advanced in Singapore, London and New York—but from Akron come reports that some rubber companies may soon bring out a new and lower-priced line of tires because of the stiff competition developing in the tire industry.

Prices on some steel products have been raised and U. S. Steel stockholders were told Monday that further price boosts on finished products are being planned—but the same day a major truck maker, International Harvester, cut retail prices on one line of its trucks (It takes a lot of steel to make them) by $87 to $152.

The truck maker explains that it wants a larger share of the truck market and is going after it by increasing production and cutting prices.

Clothing and shoe prices may be going higher, come fall.

Men's suit makers blame rising labor costs for a contemplated price advance in the fall. But in Australia the price of wool is going up again, with the market reported strong this week.

Shoe makers also blame rising costs for a contemplated price boost on fall shoes, and they mention the high cost of leather—yet the larger slaughter of cattle this spring suggests ample supplies of hides.

Some of the see-saw of prices reflects adjustments to the end of controls.

Metals are the prime examples here. Domestic demand for lead and zinc is rising, producers say, but prices are weak, because of world market conditions. Copper prices are still above the old price ceilings under controls—but the price of brass and bronze has dropped back to the old ceilings, or lower.

Most of the see-saw, however, is just the natural workings of the market, as people want more first of one product and then of another, and as world supplies increase or tighten.

It's neither inflation nor deflation yet, just the return of prices to the old two-way street on which they normally travel, when the government doesn't interfere.

Convention Opens

Wellsville, May 7 (AP)—A three-day convention of New York State Future Farmers of America opened here today. About 120 schools were represented.

EAT WELL for Less

Bake Tarts for Mother's Day

STRAWBERRY CHIFFON TARTS, crisp and creamy, make a delightful dessert gift from daughter to mother on Mother's Day.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

A niece of mine in California claims her strawberry chiffon tarts recipe is the brightest and most delightful dessert any daughter can make to honor her mother on Mother's Day. The best way to prove that statement is in the eating.

It's my guess that whether mother is a Californian or not, she'll be pretty well pleased with these bright little tarts.

Strawberry Chiffon Tarts
(Makes 8 individual tarts)

One recipe pastry, 1 3-ounce package strawberry-flavored gelatin dessert, ¾ cup hot water, 1¼ cups fresh strawberries (sliced), 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/3 cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/3 cup nonfat dry milk.

Roll out pastry about ⅛ inch thick and cut into 2-inch circles. Use 5 circles for each tart. Overlap each circle, petal fashion, in 3-inch muffin pans (being careful not to stretch pastry). Press together firmly.

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons sugar over strawberries and let stand 5 minutes.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, stir in strawberries. Chill until slightly thickened. Pour 1/3 cup water and lemon juice into a deep 1-quart bowl and sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder over surface. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff, about 8 to 10 minutes.

Fold into slightly thickened gelatin mixture. Spoon into individual tart shells. Chill until firm. If desired, decorate with additional whipped topping and strawberries.

Note—One 12-ounce package strawberries (defrosted) may be used, omitting sugar.

Like strawberry milk drinks? Then read on, remembering that nonfat dry milk is on the list of foods abundant this month.

Strawberry Crush
(Makes 2 servings)

One-half cup sliced fresh strawberries, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 cups water, ½ cup nonfat dry milk.

Beat sliced berries with sugar in 1-quart bowl with rotary beater or electric mixer. Stir in water; sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder over surface. Beat again until well blended. Chill and serve. Garnish with a sliced strawberry. If desired, color a deeper pink with a drop of food coloring.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Combined grapefruit and orange juice, scrambled eggs and chicken livers, enriched toast, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Cottage cheese salad garnished with sliced tomatoes, cucumbers and radishes, sour cream dressing, toasted English muffins, butter or margarine, orange cup cakes, tea, milk.

DINNER: Salmon souffle, paprika sauce, fluffy rice, fresh asparagus, butter or margarine, pascal celery and scallions, enriched bread, butter or margarine, strawberry chiffon tarts, coffee, milk.

President Is Due At Dinners in N. Y.

Washington, May 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower flies to New York city tonight for perhaps his most important outright political appearance since he took office.

Several thousand party faithful bought $100 tickets to hear him address the annual banquet of the New York State Republican Committee. Because of an overflow audience, two dinners were arranged, one at the Astor and the other at the Waldorf Astoria.

The President planned to address both of them, first at the Astor (about 8:25 p. m., EST) and then at the Waldorf (about 9:35). Both talks will be made from notes. There will be a live NBC radio broadcast of the Waldorf talk. ABC will carry a recording of the Astor talk (8:35 p. m.) and so will CBS (9:45 p. m.).

Funds raised by the dinners will be divided equally between the State and National Committees.

Before today, the President had made only two other political speeches since taking office. Both were informal. One was April 24 before the Republican Women's spring conference here and the other several weeks earlier when he addressed members of the GOP National Committee at the White House.

Presidential aides indicated Eisenhower might choose to review tonight some of the highspots of his first 100 days in office.

Mud Closes Schools

Heath, Mass. (AP) — Spring is in the air, and there's mud in the roads. In fact, there is so much mud that every year the local children are given a school vacation because the roads are made impassable by the spring rains. This year the students in Heath, and the nearby village of Hawley are excused from classes for two weeks.

EAT WELL for Less

Bake Tarts for Mother's Day

STRAWBERRY CHIFFON TARTS, crisp and creamy, make a delightful dessert gift from daughter to mother on Mother's Day.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

A niece of mine in California claims her strawberry chiffon tarts recipe is the brightest and most delightful dessert any daughter can make to honor her mother on Mother's Day. The best way to prove that statement is in the eating.

It's my guess that whether mother is a Californian or not, she'll be pretty well pleased with these bright little tarts.

Strawberry Chiffon Tarts
(Makes 8 individual tarts)

One recipe pastry, 1 3-ounce package strawberry-flavored gelatin dessert, ¾ cup hot water, 1¼ cups fresh strawberries (sliced), 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/3 cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/3 cup nonfat dry milk.

Roll out pastry about ⅛ inch thick and cut into 2-inch circles. Use 5 circles for each tart. Overlap each circle, petal fashion, in 3-inch muffin pans (being careful not to stretch pastry). Press together firmly.

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons sugar over strawberries and let stand 5 minutes.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, stir in strawberries. Chill until slightly thickened. Pour 1/3 cup water and lemon juice into a deep 1-quart bowl and sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder over surface. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff, about 8 to 10 minutes.

Fold into slightly thickened gelatin mixture. Spoon into individual tart shells. Chill until firm. If desired, decorate with additional whipped topping and strawberries.

Note—One 12-ounce package strawberries (defrosted) may be used, omitting sugar.

Like strawberry milk drinks? Then read on, remembering that nonfat dry milk is on the list of foods abundant this month.

Strawberry Crush
(Makes 2 servings)

One-half cup sliced fresh strawberries, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 cups water, ½ cup nonfat dry milk.

Beat sliced berries with sugar in 1-quart bowl with rotary beater or electric mixer. Stir in water; sprinkle nonfat dry milk powder over surface. Beat again until well blended. Chill and serve. Garnish with a sliced strawberry. If desired, color a deeper pink with a drop of food coloring.

TOMORROW'S MENU

DINNER: Salmon souffle, paprika sauce, fluffy rice, fresh asparagus, butter or margarine, pascal celery and scallions, enriched bread, butter or margarine, strawberry chiffon tarts, coffee, milk.

President Is Due At Dinners in N. Y.

Washington, May 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower flies to New York city tonight for perhaps his most important outright political appearance since he took office.

Several thousand party faithful bought $100 tickets to hear him address the annual banquet of the New York State Republican Committee. Because of an overflow audience, two dinners were arranged, one at the Astor and the other at the Waldorf Astoria.

The President planned to address both of them, first at the Astor (about 8:25 p. m., EST) and then at the Waldorf (about 9:35). Both talks will be made from notes. There will be a live NBC radio broadcast of the Waldorf talk. ABC will carry a recording of the Astor talk (8:35 p. m.) and so will CBS (9:45 p. m.).

Funds raised by the dinners will be divided equally between the State and National Committees.

Before today, the President had made only two other political speeches since taking office. Both were informal. One was April 24 before the Republican Women's spring conference here and the other several weeks earlier when he addressed members of the GOP National Committee at the White House.

Presidential aides indicated Eisenhower might choose to review tonight some of the highspots of his first 100 days in office.

Blame Bomb on Crank

New York, May 7 (AP)—Police blame a publicity-seeking crank for the explosion of a home-made bomb in a locker at Grand Central terminal late yesterday. No one was near enough to be injured as the locker was blown up and three others damaged. Fragments of metal and other material showered a ramp. Sgt. Blame Bomb on Crank

Eino Salmi, 24, of Rifton, was fined a total of $75 on two traffic charges this morning by Justice of the Peace Harold Macholdt, of the Town of Ulster.

Salmi paid a $50 fine on a charge of reckless driving, and $25 on a charge of having illegal registration plates on his 1948 automobile. He pleaded guilty to both charges.

He was arrested at the sheriff's office at 7:15 a. m. by Deputy Benjamin Newkirk on complaint of Richard O. Gruver, of Hurley. Gruver alleged that Salmi's vehicle had passed recklessly in a fog his automobile and another car, in a line of four cars, on Route 209 near Wiltwyck Golf Club. Gruver and another driver were forced to jam on their brakes in order to avoid a collision with each other, while Salmi was forced to pull sharply into line to avoid a headon collision with an automobile travelling south.

Chases Salmi Car

After the incident Gruver chased Salmi and caught up with him at the traffic light at Hurley and Washington avenues. He saw Kingston Patrolman Edward Leonard on North Front street, complained of the reckless driving, and Leonard took Salmi to the sheriff's office.

The sheriff's office reported the illegal registration charge involved the alleged use of plates issued for a 1948 Studebaker on a 1948 Oldsmobile, and that Salmi had a dealer's temporary certificate which had expired April 7.

Justice Macholdt then ordered Salmi's license plates confiscated for shipment to the State Motor Vehicle Bureau in Albany. The car was taken to the rear of the county court house.

Kingston High School Choir Sets Annual Concert May 15, 16

The Kingston High School Choir will present its annual concert Friday and Saturday nights, May 15 and 16, in the high school auditorium, under the direction of Leonard Stine.

Will Deliver Tickets

Tickets are available from members of the choir. Anyone who desires to purchase tickets, may telephone the high school and tickets will be delivered.

The choir was originally organized as a selective group chosen from the school chorus, to enter the competition-festivals sponsored by the New York State School Music Association, and has consistently won first ratings in eight state and two national competition-festivals in which it has participated.

The group made two concert trips of several days each to Connecticut, and, in the spring of 1952, gave a series of eight concerts while on tour in northern New York state. They have appeared at the Potsdam State Teachers' College, in joint concert with the Vassar College Choir, and have twice been sponsored by the Dutchess County Music Association in Poughkeepsie. On February 28, 1953, the choir sang and gave a demonstration of voice class techniques at the eastern division of the Music Educators' National Conference at Buffalo.

Alumni Adds to Reputation

Alumni of the choir are also adding to its reputation by their impressive records in musical participation. Some are engaged in the field of music education occupying positions as faculty members in schools and colleges, while others are engaged in the field of professional music. More recent choir alumni are continuing their study of music at such institutions as the Juilliard School of Music, the New England Conservatory, the Eastman School of Music, the Crane Institute of Music at Potsdam, Fredonia State Teachers' College, New York University, and the Oberlin Conservatory of Music. Of those who do not continue the study of music professionally, many become soloists in university or college choirs or glee clubs, while a considerable number occupy positions as church soloists.

Leonard Stine, Director

Leonard Stine, director of the choir and supervisor of music for the Kingston Board of Education, is a graduate of Ithaca College and New York University. He has served as vice-president in charge of vocal music for New York State School Music Association and is a member of the summer school faculty of the University of Rhode Island. He has been invited to be the guest conductor of the All-Long-Island High School Chorus three times, the Connecticut All-State Chorus, Laurel Music Camp (sponsored by the Connecticut Music Educators' Association), and many regional and area festivals in New York State and New England. A member of the New York City Singing Teachers Association and the National Association of Teachers of Singing, he is well known as a competition-festival adjudicator for both soloists and choral groups throughout the east.

The choir's most recent venture was a trip to Southern Pennsylvania during Easter vacation where two concerts were presented, one at Gettysburg, under the auspices of the music department of Gettysburg College, the other at McCaskey High School in Lancaster. The coming concerts in Kingston will include some early liturgical music, selections by contemporary English and American composers, and a group of spirituals.

To Compete in Hudson

The Kingston High School Choir will enter the competition festival at Hudson, N. Y. Friday evening, sponsored by the New York State School Music Association. The choir will be the last choir of the day to participate and is scheduled to sing before the judges at approximately 9:45 p. m. The competition is being held in Hudson High School. It is possible to earn a rating of A, B, C, D in anyone of six grades of music. Thus the highest rating it is possible to attain is A6 while the lowest is D1. Goups performing music not listed on the state lists are designated as "festival" entries and receive criticisms but no rating. The Kingston Choir has received A6 ratings twice during the past several years and is again participating on this basis.

There are also sixteen soloists from the choir competing. They will be singing on Friday morning. From this group will be chosen the soloists for the concerts in Kingston May 15 and May 16.

Olive Nursing Committee

The town of Olive Public Health Nursing Committee will hold its regular meeting in the American Legion building at Ashokan, at 8 p. m. Monday, May 11.

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, Jr., will be the guest speaker and will give a talk in conjunction with a cancer film to be shown. The public is invited to attend.

Kingston High School Seniors Elected Magna Cum Laude

Sixteen graduating seniors have been given the coveted honor of being elected to Magna Cum Laude for 1953. Marni Paley, valedictorian, and Shirley M. Craig, salutatorian, head the list with averages of 95.578 and 95.093, respectively.

Eaton Asks Emergency Help for Escapees By Donating to UJA

An assistance program for Jewish escapees from anti-Semitism in Iron Curtain countries is now being provided in West Berlin through the nationwide United Jewish Appeal, but additional funds are required immediately to move these homeless people to Israel and other free havens, it was reported today by Herman J. Eaton, chairman of the Kingston United Jewish Welfare Fund.

Mr. Eaton said that the Jewish refugees in West Berlin are being helped by both the Joint Distribution Committee and through the United Israel Appeal, two of the three constituent agencies of the United Jewish Appeal. The third agency is the United Service for New Americans, which assists newcomers to settle in this country.

He said that the Joint Distribution Committee, known in Europe as the "Joint" and a continuing target of Soviet attack, is providing relief, welfare and medical aid to the escapees, and the United Israel Appeal is making provision for the transfer of many of them to Israel.

Noting that 2,500,000 Jews live in Iron Curtain countries, Mr. Eaton emphasized the vital necessity of aiding all those who escape oppression. He declared: "If there is to be a new wave of refugees from Eastern Europe, and if these refugees have to go to Israel, then we must be ready and able to help them."

The United Jewish Appeal, since the end of World War 2, has helped more than 623,000 Jews originating in Iron Curtain countries to emigrate to Israel and other democratic nations, and in 1953 its humanitarian mission has even more urgent significance in the light of Soviet attacks on Jews, he declared.

"Of the 623,000 eastern European Jews helped to migrate by the United Jewish Appeal, 398,000 have been helped to enter Israel," Mr. Eaton said. "Of the remaining quarter of a million refugees, 67,000 were helped to enter the United States, 38,000 to emigrate to South America and the British Dominions including Canada, and 120,000 to go to western Europe."

Mr. Eaton noted that the United Jewish Appeal's over-all program also encompasses vast projects in Israel. "It is important," he stressed, "that we help build Israel so that we may continue to provide a haven where every Jewish man, woman and child fleeing from oppression may find a refuge in a free and democratic state."

"Through maximum voluntary contributions to the 1953 United Jewish Welfare Fund," Mr. Eaton emphasized, "we can continue and expand the crucial humanitarian work of the United Jewish Appeal and its constituent agencies. As Americans interested in saving lives and strengthening democracy at home and abroad, we must do more and give more to help all who aspire to freedom."

To meet the needs of escapees from Soviet tyranny, to strengthen Israel as a haven for the oppressed and homeless, to aid needy and helpless people in other lands and to carry on great projects of relief and resettlement, Mr. Eaton said, the United Jewish Appeal is this year seeking the sum of $144,524,250 in its nationwide drive in 5,000 American communities from coast to coast.

In Kingston, "our goal, representing our share of the national campaign, has been set at $65,000," Mr. Eaton declared. He urged that contributions be sent to the United Jewish Welfare Fund, 265 Wall street.

Kingston High School Choir Sets Annual Concert May 15, 16

The Kingston High School Choir will present its annual concert Friday and Saturday nights, May 15 and 16, in the high school auditorium, under the direction of Leonard Stine.

Will Deliver Tickets

Tickets are available from members of the choir. Anyone who desires to purchase tickets, may telephone the high school and tickets will be delivered.

The choir was originally organized as a selective group chosen from the school chorus, to enter the competition-festivals sponsored by the New York State School Music Association, and has consistently won first ratings in eight state and two national competition-festivals in which it has participated.

The group made two concert trips of several days each to Connecticut, and, in the spring of 1952, gave a series of eight concerts while on tour in northern New York state. They have appeared at the Potsdam State Teachers' College, in joint concert with the Vassar College Choir, and have twice been sponsored by the Dutchess County Music Association in Poughkeepsie. On February 28, 1953, the choir sang and gave a demonstration of voice class techniques at the eastern division of the Music Educators' National Conference at Buffalo.

Alumni Adds to Reputation

Alumni of the choir are also adding to its reputation by their impressive records in musical participation. Some are engaged in the field of music education occupying positions as faculty members in schools and colleges, while others are engaged in the field of professional music. More recent choir alumni are continuing their study of music at such institutions as the Juilliard School of Music, the New England Conservatory, the Eastman School of Music, the Crane Institute of Music at Potsdam, Fredonia State Teachers' College, New York University, and the Oberlin Conservatory of Music. Of those who do not continue the study of music professionally, many become soloists in university or college choirs or glee clubs, while a considerable number occupy positions as church soloists.

Leonard Stine, Director

Leonard Stine, director of the choir and supervisor of music for the Kingston Board of Education, is a graduate of Ithaca College and New York University. He has served as vice-president in charge of vocal music for New York State School Music Association and is a member of the summer school faculty of the University of Rhode Island. He has been invited to be the guest conductor of the All-Long-Island High School Chorus three times, the Connecticut All-State Chorus, Laurel Music Camp (sponsored by the Connecticut Music Educators' Association), and many regional and area festivals in New York State and New England. A member of the New York City Singing Teachers Association and the National Association of Teachers of Singing, he is well known as a competition-festival adjudicator for both soloists and choral groups throughout the east.

The choir's most recent venture was a trip to Southern Pennsylvania during Easter vacation where two concerts were presented, one at Gettysburg, under the auspices of the music department of Gettysburg College, the other at McCaskey High School in Lancaster. The coming concerts in Kingston will include some early liturgical music, selections by contemporary English and American composers, and a group of spirituals.

To Compete in Hudson

The Kingston High School Choir will enter the competition festival at Hudson, N. Y. Friday evening, sponsored by the New York State School Music Association. The choir will be the last choir of the day to participate and is scheduled to sing before the judges at approximately 9:45 p. m. The competition is being held in Hudson High School. It is possible to earn a rating of A, B, C, D in anyone of six grades of music. Thus the highest rating it is possible to attain is A6 while the lowest is D1. Goups performing music not listed on the state lists are designated as "festival" entries and receive criticisms but no rating. The Kingston Choir has received A6 ratings twice during the past several years and is again participating on this basis.

There are also sixteen soloists from the choir competing. They will be singing on Friday morning. From this group will be chosen the soloists for the concerts in Kingston May 15 and May 16.

Olive Nursing Committee

The town of Olive Public Health Nursing Committee will hold its regular meeting in the American Legion building at Ashokan, at 8 p. m. Monday, May 11.

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, Jr., will be the guest speaker and will give a talk in conjunction with a cancer film to be shown. The public is invited to attend.

Kingston High School Seniors Elected Magna Cum Laude

Sixteen graduating seniors have been given the coveted honor of being elected to Magna Cum Laude for 1953. Marni Paley, valedictorian, and Shirley M. Craig, salutatorian, head the list with averages of 95.578 and 95.093, respectively.

An assistance program for Jewish escapees from anti-Semitism in Iron Curtain countries is now being provided in West Berlin through the nationwide United Jewish Appeal, but additional funds are required immediately to move these homeless people to Israel and other free havens, it was reported today by Herman J. Eaton, chairman of the Kingston United Jewish Welfare Fund.

Mr. Eaton said that the Jewish refugees in West Berlin are being helped by both the Joint Distribution Committee and through the United Israel Appeal, two of the three constituent agencies of the United Jewish Appeal. The third agency is the United Service for New Americans, which assists newcomers to settle in this country.

He said that the Joint Distribution Committee, known in Europe as the "Joint" and a continuing target of Soviet attack, is providing relief, welfare and medical aid to the escapees, and the United Israel Appeal is making provision for the transfer of many of them to Israel.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, 'Children Are People,' etc.)

EVIDENCE OF FICKLENESS

A bride-to-be explains: "I was to have been married last year, but due to unhappy circumstances, the wedding was cancelled. I already had asked a college friend of mine to be my attendant of honor, but fortunately she had not bought her dress. Now I am going to be married to someone else and in the meantime have met another girl with whom I have become very friendly, and would like to have her as my attendant of honor, if possible. I plan on having just one attendant. I would like to know if I am obliged to ask this first girl again or whether I may have this new friend. I still see the other girl, but not as often, and certainly don't want to hurt her feelings.

Your old friend will be hurt—and moreover you will be criticized by everyone—if you put a new friend in her place so soon.

An Unhappy Omission

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently, my engagement was announced in the local newspaper. In the write-up I did not mention my finance's parents. I thought this was correct as there is no mention of them on the wedding invitations. However, I understand that his parents are quite put out over this. Will you please tell me if I was so terribly wrong in omitting their names, and what can I do about it?

Answer: Sorry, but you should have given their names. It is not the same at all as including their names on the wedding invitations. There is nothing you can do now further than to say you are sorry.

Mailing Wedding Invitations

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how far in advance of the wedding the invitations should be sent out?

Answer: The invitations to a large wedding could be mailed as late as ten days before the wedding day.

How long before the wedding should the engagement announcement be made public? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but many details on engagements, are included in Leaflet E-1. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Strike at Yale

New Haven, Conn., May 7 (AP)—Most of Yale's service employes went on strike today demanding a wage increase the university says it "is in no position to pay." Also demanded by the Federation of University Employes Union (Ind.) is that Yale restrict its employment of students. It also wants a union shop at Yale. About 450 union employes went on strike at 5 a. m. (EST) today and picketing started immediately. Yale, meantime, says it "regrets exceedingly" that the union has chosen to strike and that the university cannot pay the 10 cents an hour across-the-board wage increase the union seeks because of an expected operating deficit.

EVIDENCE OF FICKLENESS

A bride-to-be explains: "I was to have been married last year, but due to unhappy circumstances, the wedding was cancelled. I already had asked a college friend of mine to be my attendant of honor, but fortunately she had not bought her dress. Now I am going to be married to someone else and in the meantime have met another girl with whom I have become very friendly, and would like to have her as my attendant of honor, if possible. I plan on having just one attendant. I would like to know if I am obliged to ask this first girl again or whether I may have this new friend. I still see the other girl, but not as often, and certainly don't want to hurt her feelings.

Your old friend will be hurt—and moreover you will be criticized by everyone—if you put a new friend in her place so soon.

An Unhappy Omission

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently, my engagement was announced in the local newspaper. In the write-up I did not mention my finance's parents. I thought this was correct as there is no mention of them on the wedding invitations. However, I understand that his parents are quite put out over this. Will you please tell me if I was so terribly wrong in omitting their names, and what can I do about it?

Answer: Sorry, but you should have given their names. It is not the same at all as including their names on the wedding invitations. There is nothing you can do now further than to say you are sorry.

Mailing Wedding Invitations

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how far in advance of the wedding the invitations should be sent out?

Answer: The invitations to a large wedding could be mailed as late as ten days before the wedding day.

How long before the wedding should the engagement announcement be made public? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but many details on engagements, are included in Leaflet E-1. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Strike at Yale

New Haven, Conn., May 7 (AP)—Most of Yale's service employes went on strike today demanding a wage increase the university says it "is in no position to pay." Also demanded by the Federation of University Employes Union (Ind.) is that Yale restrict its employment of students. It also wants a union shop at Yale. About 450 union employes went on strike at 5 a. m. (EST) today and picketing started immediately. Yale, meantime, says it "regrets exceedingly" that the union has chosen to strike and that the university cannot pay the 10 cents an hour across-the-board wage increase the union seeks because of an expected operating deficit.

Expensive Swim

Montpelier, Vt., (AP) — A high dive and a short swim proved expensive sport for a Norwich University lad. A group of friends dared a 19-year-old student to dive from the Spring Street bridge into the North Branch for a $5 bet. A neighbor who saw the fellow strip to the waist and dive into the cold water called the police. The "law" arrived in time to assist the swimmer from the stream and the next morning he was in court charged with breach of peace. The fine was $50 and costs of $8.20. The judge suggested the friends might raise the ante to defray the costs.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

There is an old saying—"What you don't know won't hurt you." From an economic standpoint that saying never had any truth in it; it was one of those delusions to be contrary to!

From today's international political standpoint the saying is downright dangerous.

The Ruminator thinks we should turn the saying around and add to it, for the sake of realism: "What you don't know is surely likely to hurt you; and what you think you know may hurt you even more."

This sounds rather cynical, I grant you, but let'se see where it leads us. We mentioned the economic standpoint first, above, so we'll consider that angle ahead of the political.

It so happens that the factors which influence the economic and business cycle—the swing from good to bad business, and reverse—lie sin the field of money and credit. Don't misunderstand me; I do not mean to imply that there are not other factors, because of course there are: Basically, for example, what people do with their money (save it or spend it) has a powerful effect on business; but when you trace that back you find it influenced by credit and monetary conditions that may have developed long before people "felt it" and translated it into saving or spending.

Money and credit comprise such a complex subject that people generally know little about it.

Take the present situation as an example. The government has just taken a sensational step forward in its borrowing program by hiking the interest rate on long-term bonds to three and one quarter per cent (3¼%). This was really a drastic jump in rate, when you consider that for years the government has borrowed money for 2½ per cent (and much less for short terms). I used the words "drastic jump" and yet it refers to a mere ¾ of 1 per cent. In billions this represents a large sum; in a hundred-dollar loan, it doesn't amount to much. The man on the street is not much impressed with figures as small as these. They do not register as being significant.

However, the change in the cost of borrowing money is sweeping through the whole credit system. Banks are asking more and so are all lenders.

Yet, this change in money conditions is not likely to affect the borrowing habits of the average consumer for some time to come. When a family buys a washing machine on time, or even a house on a long-term mortgage, the interest the family pays has very little influence upon the purchase. What decides the question is merely how small the down payments are and how moderate the monthly payments. Few families stop to analyze the cost of borrowing the money. It is like the "take-home-pay" problem. Workers calculate their wages on what they get in the envelope; not on their full pay less taxes.

Certainly, what borrowers don't know about interest does hurt them. Moreover, inasmuch as the trend of interest rates affects the price-trends of bonds, and of the cost of doing business, this economic factor (which people generally don't know about) is of extraordinary significance and can severely hurt all of us when it reaches a point where it becomes a deadening load on business.

The Ruminator doubts that the initial step of the Eisenhower Administration to "tighten up money" (in turn, to curb inflation) is a warning of worse to come, because the administration is committed to helping, not injuring, business. Indeed, it looks as if the treasury went a bit too far in advancing long-term rates to 3¼ per cent, and a slight shift in the other direction would not be surprising. However, our discussion here is mainly to emphasize the thought that money problems are of extreme importance, yet are problems the general public gives little heed to. Therefore, we contrarians must constantly keep money-minded in order not to overlook factors that will hurt us if we don't know about them.

Turning briefly to the political standpoint, I don't imagine anyone will argue that it is indeed dangerous to our thinking today to jump to conclusions merely from what propaganda we read and hear. In the cold war, propaganda and psychological warfare play a conspicuous part and take up so much of our news that we read far more than we can estimate. Shokan

Shokan, May 6—Fishermen are reported to be having good luck with wall-eyed pike down at the dividing weir bridge of the Ashokan Reservoir. One fish story has it that a seven-pounder was caught there recently.

Shandaken residents calling here Thursday included Lewis Haulenbeeck and son, Ed., of the Woodland Valley road. The Haulenbeeckes, who operate a farm and sawmill, have invested in a yoke of big red oxen, a breed that used to be considered the best workcattle of them all. Lew, who has long preferred oxen for skidding logs out of the woods, bought the pair over in the Danbury area of Connecticut where oxen are still much in use by farmers and lumberman.

Harry Jones, formerly of the Spillway section, is reported to be building a new home on a lot bought of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Richard. Harry, a brother of Spencer Jones of Ashokan, is a member of the chlorinating force down at the reservoir headworks. The Richard development embraces several acres on elevated land overlooking the old state road, being part of the one time Emma Every farm.

Spring is a good time to climb old High Point, that majestic southern rampart of the Catskills which appears from a distance literally to rise up out of the waters of the reservoir west basin. The Point's lofty crest affords a view of seven states; its "tidal spring" has remained a mysterious natural phenomenon for two centuries, and the great flat rock thereon bears the cut initials of generations of climbers.

A fine May day in 1897 found atop High Point the following party of Ulster county young people: Maud Dumond, Mary A. and Roxy D. Boice, LeGrand Bishop, Frank Ennist, Flora Bishop, Phoebe Van Kleeck, Chester Bishop, Nora Boice, Henry Winchell, Jr., Victor Brown and Lorenzo Beesmer. George A. Boice of Illinois also was a member of the party. Incidentally, found amongst some empty lunch boxes of a preceding party, was a note by two Shokan gentlemen to the effect that they had just finished a bottle of old rye whiskey and were "feeling fine."

Stanley Shaw, Kingston War 1 veteran and wife, were callers in the village Sunday. Stanley was born and brought up in the Sand Hill section of Shokan and attended Brookside school in the old village.

Nobody Is Hurt In Political Duel

Montevideo, Uruguay, May 7 (AP) —It is the latest thing in duels—legal, real guns and bullets, bigshot contenders and an audience, even press and radio coverage.

And nobody got hurt. All four shots missed.

Today no one seemed to know if the duelists—Senate President Alfeo Brum and politician-newspaperman Ulises Pereira Reverbel—would carry their current tiff further. The 30-year-old law legalizing dueling doesn't mention misses.

Brum and Pereira have been bickering about Uruguayan politics for quite a while. Recently the pair exchanged blows at an airfield. A tribunal of honor subsequently ruled there was cause for a duel.

Weapons, seconds and medicos were selected. With them, Brum and Pereira met yesterday at an army airfield 30 miles from here. Among the distinguished few allowed to witness the affair was Andres Martinez Trueba. A former president, he now heads the national council which in 1951 supplanted the presidency.

Newspaper and radio correspondents also came along, but were kept 100 yards from the line of fire. Via portable transmitter, the radiomen gave Uruguayans a shot-by-shot description.

Each man fired two shots.

No hits.

Expensive Swim

Montpelier, Vt., (AP) — A high dive and a short swim proved expensive sport for a Norwich University lad. A group of friends dared a 19-year-old student to dive from the Spring Street bridge into the North Branch for a $5 bet. A neighbor who saw the fellow strip to the waist and dive into the cold water called the police. The "law" arrived in time to assist the swimmer from the stream and the next morning he was in court charged with breach of peace. The fine was $50 and costs of $8.20. The judge suggested the friends might raise the ante to defray the costs.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

There is an old saying—"What you don't know won't hurt you." From an economic standpoint that saying never had any truth in it; it was one of those delusions to be contrary to!

From today's international political standpoint the saying is downright dangerous.

The Ruminator thinks we should turn the saying around and add to it, for the sake of realism: "What you don't know is surely likely to hurt you; and what you think you know may hurt you even more."

This sounds rather cynical, I grant you, but let'se see where it leads us. We mentioned the economic standpoint first, above, so we'll consider that angle ahead of the political.

It so happens that the factors which influence the economic and business cycle—the swing from good to bad business, and reverse—lie sin the field of money and credit. Don't misunderstand me; I do not mean to imply that there are not other factors, because of course there are: Basically, for example, what people do with their money (save it or spend it) has a powerful effect on business; but when you trace that back you find it influenced by credit and monetary conditions that may have developed long before people "felt it" and translated it into saving or spending.

Money and credit comprise such a complex subject that people generally know little about it.

Take the present situation as an example. The government has just taken a sensational step forward in its borrowing program by hiking the interest rate on long-term bonds to three and one quarter per cent (3¼%). This was really a drastic jump in rate, when you consider that for years the government has borrowed money for 2½ per cent (and much less for short terms). I used the words "drastic jump" and yet it refers to a mere ¾ of 1 per cent. In billions this represents a large sum; in a hundred-dollar loan, it doesn't amount to much. The man on the street is not much impressed with figures as small as these. They do not register as being significant.

However, the change in the cost of borrowing money is sweeping through the whole credit system. Banks are asking more and so are all lenders.

Yet, this change in money conditions is not likely to affect the borrowing habits of the average consumer for some time to come. When a family buys a washing machine on time, or even a house on a long-term mortgage, the interest the family pays has very little influence upon the purchase. What decides the question is merely how small the down payments are and how moderate the monthly payments. Few families stop to analyze the cost of borrowing the money. It is like the "take-home-pay" problem. Workers calculate their wages on what they get in the envelope; not on their full pay less taxes.

Certainly, what borrowers don't know about interest does hurt them. Moreover, inasmuch as the trend of interest rates affects the price-trends of bonds, and of the cost of doing business, this economic factor (which people generally don't know about) is of extraordinary significance and can severely hurt all of us when it reaches a point where it becomes a deadening load on business.

The Ruminator doubts that the initial step of the Eisenhower Administration to "tighten up money" (in turn, to curb inflation) is a warning of worse to come, because the administration is committed to helping, not injuring, business. Indeed, it looks as if the treasury went a bit too far in advancing long-term rates to 3¼ per cent, and a slight shift in the other direction would not be surprising. However, our discussion here is mainly to emphasize the thought that money problems are of extreme importance, yet are problems the general public gives little heed to. Therefore, we contrarians must constantly keep money-minded in order not to overlook factors that will hurt us if we don't know about them.

Turning briefly to the political standpoint, I don't imagine anyone will argue that it is indeed dangerous to our thinking today to jump to conclusions merely from what propaganda we read and hear. In the cold war, propaganda and psychological warfare play a conspicuous part and take up so much of our news that we read far more than we can estimate. But it is "what we don't know" that may hurt us the worst. So the only safe thing to do is to read all the pronouncements pertaining to the so-called peace-offensives with a penetrating and contrary eye!

Primarily — and I underscore this thought—we should keep clearly before us the fact that there is no peace offensive. Both the United States and its allies, and Russia and her satellites are defending their present positions and demanding that the other side give up its "imperialistic aims." An explosive stalemate!

Nobody Is Hurt In Political Duel

Montevideo, Uruguay, May 7 (AP) —It is the latest thing in duels—legal, real guns and bullets, bigshot contenders and an audience, even press and radio coverage.

And nobody got hurt. All four shots missed.

Today no one seemed to know if the duelists—Senate President Alfeo Brum and politician-newspaperman Ulises Pereira Reverbel—would carry their current tiff further. The 30-year-old law legalizing dueling doesn't mention misses.

Brum and Pereira have been bickering about Uruguayan politics for quite a while. Recently the pair exchanged blows at an airfield. A tribunal of honor subsequently ruled there was cause for a duel.

Weapons, seconds and medicos were selected. With them, Brum and Pereira met yesterday at an army airfield 30 miles from here. Among the distinguished few allowed to witness the affair was Andres Martinez Trueba, A former president, he now heads the national council which in 1951 supplanted the presidency.

Newspaper and radio correspondents also came along, but were kept 100 yards from the line of fire. Via portable transmitter, the radiomen gave Uruguayans a shot-by-shot description.

Each man fired two shots.

No hits.

Everyone went home.

When dummy has a long solid suit, the defenders must usually grab their tricks on the run. Otherwise they may wake up only after declarer has obtained all the discards he needs.

When today's hand was played in the Eastern States Tournament, held recently in New York, many declarers succeeded in making ten tricks because the defenders were not alert enough to take what was theirs first.

At many tables, for example, East won the first trick with the ace of spades and returned a spade to West's king. This left South's king of clubs safe from attack, so that nothing could prevent him from winning four trump tricks (by means of a finesse through East) and six diamond tricks.

At a few tables the East player saw at the very first trick that it was vital to switch to clubs. This play made a difference of two tricks.

At these tables West was able to win the second trick with the jack of clubs. The correct defense from this point was to cash the king of spades, take the ace of clubs, and then lead a third round of clubs.

By this time the defenders had taken four tricks in the black suits and were now sure to win a fifth trick with a trump. If dummy ruffed low, East could easily overruff. If dummy ruffed with the king of hearts, the defenders were sure of a natural trump trick with either the queen or the ten.

New York, May 7 (AP)—A decline in the stock market today was held to moderate proportions, extending into the major fractions.

Automobiles resisted the decline along with utilities. Steels were a little lower and that also held true for oils, railroads, and most chemicals.

Packard, which has topped the most active list for the past three days, was up slightly most of the time. One block of 4,200 shares was on the tape unchanged at 5¾.

Union Carbide, which disclosed plans for a vast increase in production of polyethylene, was virtually alone on the upside in the chemicals division. It was not especially active.

Lower stocks included Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Radio Corp., Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania Railroad, Standard Oil (N. J.), and Gulf Oil.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed and rather active. Higher were American Beverage, Coastal Caribbean Oils, United Aircraft Products, and Creole Petroleum. Lower were Amurex Oil Development, Canada Southern Oils, Central Explorers, Humble Oil, and Pancoastal Petroleum.

North Canadian Oils was on the tape with a block of 11,500 shares unchanged at 3.

New Stainproof Wall Coverings Give Glamor to Modern Kitchens

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

In my opinion, new, imaginative and smartly-styled designs deserve three cheers for adding decorative glamor to sturdy wall coverings that are practically stainproof.

I know from personal experience that these coverings, which are actually tough resins built up on a paper backing, are durable. Even experimental crayon scribbling can be scrubbed off without damaging surfaces.

I admit that they are more expensive than regular wallpapers. But they do stand up for years under the stress of kitchen heat, bathroom steam, and juvenile punishment.

In rooms, such as the kitchen, dining room, and playroom, where family living is concentrated, the resulting wear and tear justifies the cost of a sturdy wall covering. Today, with better-looking designs and textured effects, we get broader decorating possibilities.

Take, for example, a spectacular fruit plate design. Life size, stark white compotes, tureens, and pitchers piled high with fruit and leafy vines, parade in regular rows across a Wedgewood-blue ground.

I like this one best when it is hung above an off-white or pale-gray textured paper dado which is also scrubbable. As a backdrop for a dining alcove, it would make a fine foil for stark white dinner service and suggests interesting table centerpieces.

U. S. Glass Co., Varlar Inc.

Lively country store scenes on this paper set the stage for new countrified kitchen accessories such as the penny candy jar canisters. This covering, which combines tough resins with paper can be scrubbed clean.

You can copy the arrangement of philodendron leaves in grandma's big white soup tureen to underscore the still-life pattern on the wall. Or you can pull more clever centerpieces from the background with fruit heaped in an inexpensive white milk glass compote.

In a different tempo, and just as charming, is an Americana pattern. Such symbols as the American eagle, Liberty Bell and sheaves of grain, are framed in neat, ivy-bordered medallions against a white background. For all its up-to-date practicality, this wall covering makes a precise companion for colonial brass, glassware, trivets, needlepoint and mellow woods.

Lively country - store scenes have arrived in time to capitalize on the swing to countrified props for countrified kitchens. Penny candy jars, butter tubs, coffee grinders and painted tin canisters in these patterns set the stage for real-life counterparts which are popping up on kitchen shelves and tables.

About the only prop I don't see stepping out of the paper is the old wood stove to replace the new streamlined range.

Echoing the cheerful color of the real red geraniums in the window is another design. Skillful shading gives the paper plants a third-dimensional look that I find brings cheer to a room on the dreariest day.

Drexel

Red Leader Is Slain

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, May 7 (AP)—British authorities today reported the second slaying this week of a Malayan Communist leader by his own Red followers. An official statement said, In Hau, assistant commander of the Seventh Communist Regiment operating in Trengganau state, northeast Malaya, was shot by his own men after an argument. The information came from three surrendered rebels.

Some 38,000 U. S. Indian children are enrolled in government-operated schools.

Shall Be Released

3. Prisoners unwilling to go home shall be released from military control at "the original places of detention and be handed over to the neutral nations repatriation commission" for custody. Members of the neutral nations repatriation commission shall each provide an equal number of armed forces to insure "effective execution" of its authority.

4. The neutral commission shall permit nations to which prisoners belong to send representatives to talk to the prisoners "so as to eliminate their apprehensions and inform them of all matters relating to their return * * *." A four-month limit was sent on such talks.

5. During those four months, the neutral commission shall facilitate the "speedy return to their fatherlands" of those prisoners who request repatriation after the explanations. The commission will decide on the administrative details involved.

6. Disposition of prisoners still unwilling to return home after the four-month period shall be submitted to the political conference proposed to follow an armistice.

Shall Pay Expenses

7. All expenses of prisoners during the period of custody by the neutral commission and traveling expenses to their homelands shall be paid by the nations to which they belong.

8. Terms of the proposal and arrangements developing from it shall be explained to all prisoners.

Although the Red plan on the surface appeared conciliatory, the suspicion persisted in the allied camp that the Communists aimed to get back all their prisoners, even the unwilling ones either directly or indirectly.

This belief was supported in part by the wording of the plan, which suggested the Communists thought there would be no prisoners remaining in neutral custody after four months of explanations by Red representatives.

Communist correspondents, often propagandists for the Red truce delegation but whose views usually reflect official Communist thinking, said the new proposal was the "last concession" and there would be no withdrawal from that stand.

Yolanda J. Turck Weds John L. Kriz In St. Mary's Church

The marriage of Miss Yolanda J. Turck, daughter of Thomas Turck, 13 Willow street, and the late Mrs. Fannie Turck, to John L. Kriz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kriz, 42 Lafayette avenue, took place at 2 p. m., Sunday, May 3, in St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly was assisted by the Rev. Edwin T. Hardy of Saugerties, in performing the double ring ceremony. A reception for 225 guests was held at the Barn.

Wedding selections were played by Theodore Riccobono, organist, who also accompanied the soloist, Martin Kelly, in the Ave Maria and Panis Angelicus.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de ange lace, fashioned with a basque bodice, long pointed sleeves, Queen Anne collar encrusted with iridescent sequins, and a bouffant floor-length skirt terminating in a satin lined circular train. Her three-quarter length French illusion veil, fell from a seed pearl and rhinestone coronet type headpiece. She carried a white orchid on a prayer book, with sweetpeas on white satin streamers.

Miss Dolores Turck was her sister's honor attendant. With her lavender gown of imported lace and nylon tulle, styled with a molded bodice and bouffant floor length skirt, she wore a fischu of matching lace, a matching net hat, and carried a cascade bouquet of orchid gladioli and carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marie LaTorre of Post street; and Mrs. Beatrice Dederick of Cedar street. Their gowns in aqua were identical to the honor attendant's. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow carnations and gladioli.

Miss Virginia Turck, a sister to the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a Kate Greenaway frock of white taffeta, styled with a basque bodice, gathered bertha, and floor length skirt, trimmed with a tiny bustle. A coronet type headband of silk lilacs and a small cascade of pink rosebuds completed the ensemble.

John McDermott of Watervliet, was his cousin's best men. Serving as ushers were Frank Matton of Troy, a brother-in-law to the bridegroom; and Joseph Fallon. Daniel Turck, a cousin to the bride, was the ringbearer.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. They will reside at 27 Miller's Lane. For traveling, the bride wore a gold colored suit and navy-blue accessories.

Actions Settled On Porch Collapse

Three actions brought in Supreme Court to recover for injuries which plaintiffs suffered when a porch at the Tully D'Antonia property in Highland collapsed in September of 1951, were settled Wednesday afternoon before completion of the testimony. Frank and Carmine Figliolino and Lorin Mackey and another, brought the actions for personal injuries. Roy L. Featherstone appeared for plaintiffs and Michael Nardone for defendants.

Selection of a jury was commenced at the opening of court today before Justice William Deckelman in two actions brought against Thomas F. Cleary, a New York Central Railroad detective, and the railroad to recover damages arising out of an incident which took place at Poughkeepsie in May 1951, between the detective and Harry L. Steeger and Chirstopher D. Morris, both of Kingston, who were passengers on a train.

Two Bring Action

Steeger brings an action for assault and Morris for malicious prosecution and false arrest. It is charged that on May 28, 1951 while Steeger was en route to Rhinecliff on a train a controversy arose between himself and a conductor over a ticket. Morris intervened in the ensuing dispute and as a result Cleary was summoned at Poughkeepsie and arrested Morris. Steeger alleges that undue force was used and Morris alleges malicious prosecution as both seek punitive damages to punish the defendants for their acts. The punitive damages sought are in addition to the damages sought in the other causes of action.

Charles H. Gaffney appears for Steeger and Harry Gold with N. LeVan Haver as trial counsel for Morris. Vincent G. Connelly appears for the defendants.

Proposal Is Defeated

San Juan Puerto Rico, May 7 (AP)—A Puerto Rican Senate committee today voted down a proposal to permit 18-year-olds to vote. A majority report said: "We feel it a risk for democracy to give voting rights to impulsive youth." Under the present law all persons 21 or over may vote.

New Stainproof Wall Coverings Give Glamor to Modern Kitchens

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

In my opinion, new, imaginative and smartly-styled designs deserve three cheers for adding decorative glamor to sturdy wall coverings that are practically stainproof.

I know from personal experience that these coverings, which are actually tough resins built up on a paper backing, are durable. Even experimental crayon scribbling can be scrubbed off without damaging surfaces.

I admit that they are more expensive than regular wallpapers. But they do stand up for years under the stress of kitchen heat, bathroom steam, and juvenile punishment.

In rooms, such as the kitchen, dining room, and playroom, where family living is concentrated, the resulting wear and tear justifies the cost of a sturdy wall covering. Today, with better-looking designs and textured effects, we get broader decorating possibilities.

Take, for example, a spectacular fruit plate design. Life size, stark white compotes, tureens, and pitchers piled high with fruit and leafy vines, parade in regular rows across a Wedgewood-blue ground.

I like this one best when it is hung above an off-white or pale-gray textured paper dado which is also scrubbable. As a backdrop for a dining alcove, it would make a fine foil for stark white dinner service and suggests interesting table centerpieces.

U. S. Glass Co., Varlar Inc.

Lively country store scenes on this paper set the stage for new countrified kitchen accessories such as the penny candy jar canisters. This covering, which combines tough resins with paper can be scrubbed clean.

You can copy the arrangement of philodendron leaves in grandma's big white soup tureen to underscore the still-life pattern on the wall. Or you can pull more clever centerpieces from the background with fruit heaped in an inexpensive white milk glass compote.

In a different tempo, and just as charming, is an Americana pattern. Such symbols as the American eagle, Liberty Bell and sheaves of grain, are framed in neat, ivy-bordered medallions against a white background. For all its up-to-date practicality, this wall covering makes a precise companion for colonial brass, glassware, trivets, needlepoint and mellow woods.

Lively country - store scenes have arrived in time to capitalize on the swing to countrified props for countrified kitchens. Penny candy jars, butter tubs, coffee grinders and painted tin canisters in these patterns set the stage for real-life counterparts which are popping up on kitchen shelves and tables.

About the only prop I don't see stepping out of the paper is the old wood stove to replace the new streamlined range.

Echoing the cheerful color of the real red geraniums in the window is another design. Skillful shading gives the paper plants a third-dimensional look that I find brings cheer to a room on the dreariest day.

Drexel

Red Leader Is Slain

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, May 7 (AP)—British authorities today reported the second slaying this week of a Malayan Communist leader by his own Red followers. An official statement said, In Hau, assistant commander of the Seventh Communist Regiment operating in Trengganau state, northeast Malaya, was shot by his own men after an argument. The information came from three surrendered rebels.

Some 38,000 U. S. Indian children are enrolled in government-operated schools.

Shall Be Released

3. Prisoners unwilling to go home shall be released from military control at "the original places of detention and be handed over to the neutral nations repatriation commission" for custody. Members of the neutral nations repatriation commission shall each provide an equal number of armed forces to insure "effective execution" of its authority.

4. The neutral commission shall permit nations to which prisoners belong to send representatives to talk to the prisoners "so as to eliminate their apprehensions and inform them of all matters relating to their return * * *." A four-month limit was sent on such talks.

5. During those four months, the neutral commission shall facilitate the "speedy return to their fatherlands" of those prisoners who request repatriation after the explanations. The commission will decide on the administrative details involved.

6. Disposition of prisoners still unwilling to return home after the four-month period shall be submitted to the political conference proposed to follow an armistice.

Shall Pay Expenses

7. All expenses of prisoners during the period of custody by the neutral commission and traveling expenses to their homelands shall be paid by the nations to which they belong.

8. Terms of the proposal and arrangements developing from it shall be explained to all prisoners.

Although the Red plan on the surface appeared conciliatory, the suspicion persisted in the allied camp that the Communists aimed to get back all their prisoners, even the unwilling ones either directly or indirectly.

This belief was supported in part by the wording of the plan, which suggested the Communists thought there would be no prisoners remaining in neutral custody after four months of explanations by Red representatives.

Communist correspondents, often propagandists for the Red truce delegation but whose views usually reflect official Communist thinking, said the new proposal was the "last concession" and there would be no withdrawal from that stand.

Yolanda J. Turck Weds John L. Kriz In St. Mary's Church

The marriage of Miss Yolanda J. Turck, daughter of Thomas Turck, 13 Willow street, and the late Mrs. Fannie Turck, to John L. Kriz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kriz, 42 Lafayette avenue, took place at 2 p. m., Sunday, May 3, in St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly was assisted by the Rev. Edwin T. Wedding selections were played by Theodore Riccobono, organist, who also accompanied the soloist, Martin Kelly, in the Ave Maria and Panis Angelicus.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de ange lace, fashioned with a basque bodice, long pointed sleeves, Queen Anne collar encrusted with iridescent sequins, and a bouffant floor-length skirt terminating in a satin lined circular train. Her three-quarter length French illusion veil, fell from a seed pearl and rhinestone coronet type headpiece. She carried a white orchid on a prayer book, with sweetpeas on white satin streamers.

Miss Dolores Turck was her sister's honor attendant. With her lavender gown of imported lace and nylon tulle, styled with a molded bodice and bouffant floor length skirt, she wore a fischu of matching lace, a matching net hat, and carried a cascade bouquet of orchid gladioli and carnations.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marie LaTorre of Post street; and Mrs. Beatrice Dederick of Cedar street. Their gowns in aqua were identical to the honor attendant's. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow carnations and gladioli.

Miss Virginia Turck, a sister to the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a Kate Greenaway frock of white taffeta, styled with a basque bodice, gathered bertha, and floor length skirt, trimmed with a tiny bustle. A coronet type headband of silk lilacs and a small cascade of pink rosebuds completed the ensemble.

Actions Settled On Porch Collapse

Three actions brought in Supreme Court to recover for injuries which plaintiffs suffered when a porch at the Tully D'Antonia property in Highland collapsed in September of 1951, were settled Wednesday afternoon before completion of the testimony. Frank and Carmine Figliolino and Lorin Mackey and another, brought the actions for personal injuries. Roy L. Featherstone appeared for plaintiffs and Michael Nardone for defendants.

Selection of a jury was commenced at the opening of court today before Justice William Deckelman in two actions brought against Thomas F. Cleary, a New York Central Railroad detective, and the railroad to recover damages arising out of an incident which took place at Poughkeepsie in May 1951, between the detective and Harry L. Steeger and Chirstopher D. Morris, both of Kingston, who were passengers on a train.

Two Bring Action

Steeger brings an action for assault and Morris for malicious prosecution and false arrest. It is charged that on May 28, 1951 while Steeger was en route to Rhinecliff on a train a controversy arose between himself and a conductor over a ticket. Morris intervened in the ensuing dispute and as a result Cleary was summoned at Poughkeepsie and arrested Morris. Steeger alleges that undue force was used and Morris alleges malicious prosecution as both seek punitive damages to punish the defendants for their acts. The punitive damages sought are in addition to the damages sought in the other causes of action.

Charles H. Gaffney appears for Steeger and Harry Gold with N. LeVan Haver as trial counsel for Morris. Vincent G. Connelly appears for the defendants.

Proposal Is Defeated

San Juan Puerto Rico, May 7 (AP)—A Puerto Rican Senate committee today voted down a proposal to permit 18-year-olds to vote. A majority report said: "We feel it a risk for democracy to give voting rights to impulsive youth." Under the present law all persons 21 or over may vote.

Maroon Nine Is Blanked for Second Time in Three Games

Burkemen Halted With Two Bingles In 4 to 0 Defeat

Middletown Is Due At Stadium Today

Coach Bill Burke sent the Kingston High school nine against Middletown High at municipal stadium this afternoon hoping that the Maroon swingers would soon shed their "hitless wonder" tactics.

The Burkemen came perilously close to being no-hitted by a second string Arlington High pitcher in the process of getting shut out, 4-0, by the Dutchess county team yesterday at municipal stadium. It was their second shutout of the infant season.

Both of the Kingston safeties—singles by Bob Fay and Lou Perry — were slightly on the tainted side. Fay's safety was a sinking liner to center that centerfielder Paul Karl just missed grabbing at the shoe tops.

Perry was credited with an infield single in the fifth when he slammed a grounder to deep first and pitcher Karl failed to cover the bag.

Sixth Win in Seven Games

Karl, the Arlington flinger, encountered few rough spots as he walked only two and fanned five. He weathered a threat in the fifth after successive hits by Fay and Perry to get Skipper Brodhead and pinch hitter George Telepas on popups and Paul Johnson on a fly to right field. It was Arlington's sixth win in seven games, the only loss coming 4-3 at Newburgh.

Southpaw Frank Reis and right hander Jack Houghtaling slammed the door shut on the powerful Arlington brigade in the last five innings after starter Bruce Bechtold yielded six hits and two walks in the first two frames.

Bechtold ran into difficulties both times with two outs. With a bases loaded situation and one out in the first, catcher Bob Shelightner eased the pressure by picking a runner off second but successive singles by the Karls chased three runs across.

Nimer and B. Wright rapped singles to launch the second. Bechtold handled the next batters only to yield a two-run double to Garrett, the No. 1 Arlington flinger, who was playing in right field because of his hitting prowess.

Wildness Hampers Reis

Frank Reis permitted only one safety in a three-inning stint but got into hot water because of his own wildness. After getting two outs in the third he walked two men and then got the third out on a fly to center. Two walks and a hit batsman loaded the sacks with two away in the fifth but Reis was equal to the occasion and bagged the third out on an infield pop-up.

Houghtaling breezed through the sixth frame and also escaped a bases-loaded situation in the seventh. All in all it was a hectic day for the Maroon pitchers, who stranded 13 men.

As for the Kingston hitters, well, Coach Burke hopes that this is another day.

Cavarretta Sees Bums Team to Beat

New York, May 7 (AP)—After one quick look around the National League, Manager Phil Cavarretta of the slumping Chicago Cubs rates Brooklyn "the team to beat."

Yesterday's game at New York's Polo Grounds completed the circuit for the Cubs who have lost seven in a row. It was almost a relief for Phil to talk about something else.

"Brooklyn looks like the club to beat," he said. "That boy at second base (Junior Gilliam) looks pretty good. Jackie Robinson wasn't playing when we saw them but, with him on third, they certainly have a better hitting infield.

"And they've still got big Joe Black. That speaks for itself."

Albany Teachers Hand New Paltz Second Setback

Albany State Teachers College handed New Paltz STC its second straight defeat of the season in Albany Wednesday when the Capital City nine scored a 5 to 0 victory behind the two-hit hurling of Combs.

New Paltz dropped its opener of the season last week by 7 to 5 to Drew University. New Paltz travels to Danbury Saturday for its third game of the year.

Singles by Don Lyons and Dick Cummings were the only safeties picked up from the offerings of Combs who struck out eight and issued two walks. Norman Ellman, the New Paltz flinger, pitched acceptable ball, giving up six hits and racking up six strikeouts. He issued eight walks, however.

Auclair's 560 Tops CYO League

Eddie Auclair opened strong with a 232 single and followed with sticks of 161 and 167 for 560 to spearhead the pinfall in the CYO Holy Name League at the Bowlodrome Wednesday night.

Henry Houska spanked 549; Don Bogart 205-542; Leo Yonnetti 529 and Jack Raible 520.

Also of note were Romano Dellay with 516; John Zeeh 512; Bob Henry 512 and Jim Noble 508.

Washington—Charlie Riley, 132, St. Louis, stopped Dave Gallardo, 129½, Los Angeles, 7.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

Baseball

St. Louis—Alva "Bobo" Holloman, a St. Louis Brown rookie making his first major league start, pitched a no-hit, no-run game against the Philadelphia Athletics and helped his own 6-0 victory by driving in three runs with two singles.

Tennis

Hamilton, Bermuda—Don McNeill of New York and Fred Kovaleski of Washington, D. C., advanced to the quarter-final round of the Bermuda Invitation tournament.

Rome, Italy—Vic Seixas, Budge Patty and Bernard Bartzen gained the quarter-final round of the Italian International tournament.

Racing

New York—Eddie Arcaro captured riding honors at the opening of Belmont Park, winning the first four flat races. Tuscany ($13.80) won the $25,000 added Toboggan Handicap.

Wins by Length

Yonkers, N. Y., May 7 (AP)—Thunderation collared pace-setting Emerson Hanover on the backstretch and came home an easy one-length victor last night in the Yorktown Trot at Yonkers Raceway. Mc. Rose, who broke stride at the start, made up much ground to take second in front of Flashy Princess. The crowd of 21,414 installed the Clint Hodgins trotter a 3-2 favorite and he returned $5.10 for $2. The time for the mile was 2:07.1 over a good track.

Riley's TKO Win Boosts Chances

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Charley Riley wears "Chillin Charley" in big letters on the back of his fight robe and it was obvious to-it's a pretty accurate description.

...e young man from St. Louis punched highly-rated Dave Gallardo silly last night and thus propelled himself front and center in the muddled featherweight title picture.

Riley is no Johnny-come-lately to the fight game. He's 28 years old and has been in the ring professionally since 1944, but he has always missed the big prize.

Charley earned the big chance in scoring a technical knockout over Gallardo in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Turner's Arena. A mere 712 were on hand to watch the show, but millions more saw it on television. Riley weighed in at 132, Gallardo at 129½.

Gallardo was an 8-5 favorite on the basis of his upset victory over Bassett in a non-title bout here last month.

Riley got his break at the start of the seventh when Gallardo who was pounding away at Riley's head from close in, left his own jaw unguarded.

The Ferraro Major League will hold its annual banquet at 7:30 tonight at the SRS Home in Cottekill.

Maroon Nine Is Blanked for Second Time in Three Games

Burkemen Halted With Two Bingles In 4 to 0 Defeat

Middletown Is Due At Stadium Today

Coach Bill Burke sent the Kingston High school nine against Middletown High at municipal stadium this afternoon hoping that the Maroon swingers would soon shed their "hitless wonder" tactics.

The Burkemen came perilously close to being no-hitted by a second string Arlington High pitcher in the process of getting shut out, 4-0, by the Dutchess county team yesterday at municipal stadium. It was their second shutout of the infant season.

Both of the Kingston safeties—singles by Bob Fay and Lou Perry — were slightly on the tainted side. Fay's safety was a sinking liner to center that centerfielder Paul Karl just missed grabbing at the shoe tops.

Perry was credited with an infield single in the fifth when he slammed a grounder to deep first and pitcher Karl failed to cover the bag.

Sixth Win in Seven Games

Karl, the Arlington flinger, encountered few rough spots as he walked only two and fanned five. He weathered a threat in the fifth after successive hits by Fay and Perry to get Skipper Brodhead and pinch hitter George Telepas on popups and Paul Johnson on a fly to right field. It was Arlington's sixth win in seven games, the only loss coming 4-3 at Newburgh.

Southpaw Frank Reis and right hander Jack Houghtaling slammed the door shut on the powerful Arlington brigade in the last five innings after starter Bruce Bechtold yielded six hits and two walks in the first two frames.

Bechtold ran into difficulties both times with two outs. With a bases loaded situation and one out in the first, catcher Bob Shelightner eased the pressure by picking a runner off second but successive singles by the Karls chased three runs across.

Nimer and B. Wright rapped singles to launch the second. Bechtold handled the next batters only to yield a two-run double to Garrett, the No. 1 Arlington flinger, who was playing in right field because of his hitting prowess.

Wildness Hampers Reis

Frank Reis permitted only one safety in a three-inning stint but got into hot water because of his own wildness. After getting two outs in the third he walked two men and then got the third out on a fly to center. Two walks and a hit batsman loaded the sacks with two away in the fifth but Reis was equal to the occasion and bagged the third out on an infield pop-up.

Houghtaling breezed through the sixth frame and also escaped a bases-loaded situation in the seventh. All in all it was a hectic day for the Maroon pitchers, who stranded 13 men.

As for the Kingston hitters, well, Coach Burke hopes that this is another day.

Cavarretta Sees Bums Team to Beat

New York, May 7 (AP)—After one quick look around the National League, Manager Phil Cavarretta of the slumping Chicago Cubs rates Brooklyn "the team to beat."

Yesterday's game at New York's Polo Grounds completed the circuit for the Cubs who have lost seven in a row. It was almost a relief for Phil to talk about something else.

"Brooklyn looks like the club to beat," he said. "That boy at second base (Junior Gilliam) looks pretty good. Jackie Robinson wasn't playing when we saw them but, with him on third, they certainly have a better hitting infield.

"And they've still got big Joe Black. That speaks for itself."

Albany Teachers Hand New Paltz Second Setback

Albany State Teachers College handed New Paltz STC its second straight defeat of the season in Albany Wednesday when the Capital City nine scored a 5 to 0 victory behind the two-hit hurling of Combs.

New Paltz dropped its opener of the season last week by 7 to 5 to Drew University. New Paltz travels to Danbury Saturday for its third game of the year.

Singles by Don Lyons and Dick Cummings were the only safeties picked up from the offerings of Combs who struck out eight and issued two walks. Norman Ellman, the New Paltz flinger, pitched acceptable ball, giving up six hits and racking up six strikeouts. He issued eight walks, however.

Riley's TKO Win Boosts Chances

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Charley Riley wears "Chillin Charley" in big letters on the back of his fight robe and it was obvious to-[illegible] it's a pretty accurate description.

[illegible]e young man from St. Louis punched highly-rated Dave Gallardo silly last night and thus propelled himself front and center in the muddled featherweight title picture.

Riley is no Johnny-come-lately to the fight game. He's 28 years old and has been in the ring professionally since 1944, but he has always missed the big prize.

Charley earned the big chance in scoring a technical knockout over Gallardo in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Turner's Arena. A mere 712 were on hand to watch the show, but millions more saw it on television. Riley weighed in at 132, Gallardo at 129½.

Gallardo was an 8-5 favorite on the basis of his upset victory over Bassett in a non-title bout here last month.

Riley got his break at the start of the seventh when Gallardo who was pounding away at Riley's head from close in, left his own jaw unguarded.

Bang went Riley's right cross, and Gallardo was through. For the next 60 seconds, Riley raked Gallardo with rights and lefts.

Referee Ray Brown stopped the mauling at 1:07 of the seventh round.

Pleads for Pitching Test, Rookie Tosses No-Hitter In First Major Loop Start

First Freshman to Do Trick Since 1892

St. Louis, May 7 (AP)—Rookie Bobo Holloman, who has banged on the manager's door for two weeks pleading for a starting assignment, threw the portal of fame wide open last night by pitching a no-hitter in his first major league start for the St. Louis Browns.

The 27-year-old right hander did it with fast balls, sinkers and curves—and some splendid fielding support—against the Philadelphia Athletics for a 6-0 triumph that's unmatched in modern baseball annals.

For two weeks Holloman has pleaded with Manager Marty Marion for a starting assignment. "I'm not a bullpen pitcher," said Holloman. "I'd rather be in the minors than in the bullpen."

"That's right," confirmed Marion. "He's come into my office every day asking 'when am I gonna start?'

"He sure made a bum out of me tonight!"

A beaming, sweating Holloman, his back still red from the pounding congratulations of fans who flooded the path from the dugout to the club house after the game, laughed for photographers and said "It's the greatest thrill of my life."

Ninth Was Tough

"Nervous? Not until the ninth. That was the tough one."

And tough it was. The pressure was on. The 2,473 fans who braved discouraging, rainy weather to see the game, sat almost completely silent as Bobo faced the plate for the final inning.

Holloman showed the strain by walking pinch-hitter Elmer Valo on four pitches. Then he tossed three more consecutive balls to Eddie Joost.

Veteran Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, one-time St. Louis Cardinal southpaw now with the Browns, walked to the mound to ease the tension. Holloman tossed a called strike. Then he walked Joost.

DP Big Help

But Dave Philley hit into a double play and the fans got to their feet.

It wasn't over yet, however. Holloman walked Loren Babe and with runners on first and third, Eddie Robinson, the big man in the A's lineup, took a toe hold in the batter's box.

Robinson missed the first pitch. He foul tipped the second. The third was rammed foul down the right field line.

The fourth pitch was hit high and deep to right field. And as it fell into Vic Wertz's glove the shouts of the fans and Browns rose to a roar.

That was it. The first time a pitcher had tossed a no-hitter his first time out since Charles Jones did it with Cincinnati in 1892.

It also was the first no-hitter won by a Brownie since 1917 when Ernie Koob and Robert Groom did it. In 1934, Bobo Newsom—whose nickname Holloman picked up—tossed nine hitless innings for the Browns, but lost in the 10th to Boston, 2-1.

It was 36 years to the day since Groom grabbed his fame in a 3-0 victory over Chicago on May 6, 1917.

Knew It in Fifth

When did Holloman know he had the no-hitter? "I realized I was going after it after they charged me with an error on that hopper of (Gus) Zernial's in the fifth."

A superstitious fellow, Holloman stooped to scratch the initials "N" and "G" in the dirt of the third base line each time he went to the mound. The initials represent the names of his wife, Nan, and his 6-year-old son, Gary. Both were in the stands last night.

Holloman, who drove in three runs himself with two singles, walked five and fanned three.

In his only previous appearances for the Browns this season—all in relief—Holloman allowed nine hits and five earned runs in 4 1/3 innings during three games.

Eugene Jacobs of Brooklyn saddled 13 winners to be the leading trainer at Hialeah during the winter season.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobo Holloman of the St. Louis Browns pitched himself a no-hitter in his first major league start last (Wednesday) night. The big test now will be whether he can survive it.

Holloman, a fun-loving Georgian nicknamed after the last Brownie hurler to pitch a no-hitter, jumped from low man in the bullpen to pitching glory in nine hitless innings against the Philadelphia Athletics. He faced 31 men. Five of them walked and one reached first on Holloman's own error. St. Louis won, 6-0.

Faces Ancient Jinx

The big 27-year-old righthander now will have to whip the jinx that befell the last pitcher who opened his major league starting career with a hitless performance.

In 1892, far enough back that baseball historians don't recognize it as "modern times," Charley Jones broke in with Cincinnati with no-hitter against Pittsburgh, although Pittsburgh scored one run.

Jones won only one other major league game and was out of the big leagues in 1894.

Holloman's performance overshadowed the rest of the major league activity yesterday. Detroit defeated Washington, 8-4, and Chicago stopped Boston, 6-2, in the American League. Brooklyn whipped St. Louis, 7-3, and New York overcame Chicago, 8-5, in National League games. Cleveland and New York weren't scheduled in the American League while rain halted the other two National League games.

A cozy gathering of 2,473, including Holloman's wife Nan and their six-year-old son Gary Lee, witnessed the St. Louis spectacle and will be able to come back to see another game free.

Owner Bill Veeck told the small crowd he was grateful they had defied threatening weather and issued an invitation for them to use their rain checks to come back again sometime.

Holloman, whose given name is Alva, came up to the Browns this season after winning 16 and losing seven for Syracuse of the International League in 1952 and pitching Santurce of the Puerto Rican League to the Caribbean championship this winter. He won two big games in the Caribbean World Series in March and celebrated for two weeks, causing him to be the last Brownie to report to camp.

A good hitter for a pitcher, Holloman drove in three of the St. Louis runs on a pair of singles.

Pierce Cops Fourth

Billy Pierce of the White Sox, one of two American League pitchers to hurl a one-hitter this season, won his fourth game of the year as he set down the Red Sox on six hits. A pinch hit home run by Del Wilber with a runner on base cost him a shutout.

Ned Garver won his second straight for Detroit after three early season setbacks, scattering 10 Washington hits and driving in two of the Tigers' eight runs on a homer in the eighth inning.

Brooklyn, where "rhubarb" was first applied to a baseball argument, had another one last night. St. Louis finished the game under protest after a sixth inning set-to during which Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky and Catcher Del Rice were chased from the park.

They were ousted for arguing with Umpire Jocko Conlan who had waved Jackie Robinson home from third base after a collision with Cardinal Shortstop Solly Hemus. Hemus sprawled head first in the baseline, diving for a drive off the bat of Roy Campanella. Robinson, running from second, collided with him and fell down. Conlan ruled Hemus had obstructed the base runner.

The Giants battered six Chicago pitchers for 15 hits as they handed the Cubs their seventh straight loss.

Four Times the Goods

An hour's work by the average worker today will produce about four times the goods and services that an hour's work would produce in the United States in the middle of the 19th Century, says a Twentieth Century Fund study.

New Brook Rhubarb Erupts On Obstruction Decision

Stanky Is Ousted, Protests Contest

By JOE REICHLER

Brooklyn, May 7 (AP)—Can a fielder obstruct a base runner while lying on the ground?

The question was raised by St. Louis Manager Eddie Stanky today following a decision by Umpire Jocko Conlan in last night's game between the Cardinals and Brooklyn won by the Dodgers, 7-3.

The decision set off a heated argument between Stanky and Conlan that resulted in the managers expulsion which was immediately followed by Stanky's official protest of the game.

Here is what happened.

The Dodgers were batting in the sixth inning with Duke Snider on third, Jackie Robinson on second and Roy Campanella at bat. Campy smashed a hard grounder to the right of shortstop Solly Hemus, scoring Snider.

Hemus dove headlong for the ball which eluded his glove. Robinson collided with him while he was on the ground and he, too, was knocked down, but regained his feet and stumbled to third.

Third base umpire Tom Gorman made no call on the play but Conlan ran down the base line and waved Jackie home, ruling that Hemus had obstructed the runner. Stanky catapulted out of the dugout and argued in vain with Conlan. The expulsion and protest followed.

"I based my judgment on obstruction," Conlan explained later. "The ball was past the infield. I don't say that it was intentional but Hemus already had a chance to field the ball and Robinson couldn't change his direction."

Stanky Hits Roof

Stanky hit the roof when Conlan's explanation was relayed to him.

"Hemus was diving after the ball," he said. "How he can obstruct anybody while lying on the ground I don't know. The way I see it, the rule applies only to intent of interference or obstruction. Even Conlan admits there was no intent.

"I can't understand Conlan. He's a very good umpire, one of the best and I have the utmost respect for him. But he blew that one. Heck, there were three other umpires on the field and he has to call it from home plate. Why didn't Gorman rule obstruction? He was closest to the play. How can the plate umpire call it?

"At first he said it was either an interference, obstruction or judgment play. Then after he has time to think it over, he settles for obstruction. That a good batting average, one out of three, .333."

The versions of Hemus and Robinson differed somewhat too.

"I dove for the ball and was lying on the ground," said Hemus. "The next thing I knew he (Robinson) kicked me in the head."

Tried to Avoid Hemus

"I had a clear path," said Robinson, "and the next thing I knew I was trying to avoid him (Hemus).

"I saw him lying on the ground. I don't say I saw him back up. I don't know what happened. I don't say he did it intentionally. But Solly will do anything he possibly can to win a game. He's a great team player. If he had gotten away with it, it would have been a great play."

Rule 706 (A) states: "A batter who has become a runner is entitled to unimpeded progress as he advances around the bases. Whenever a defensive player impedes the runner in any way, unless he is attempting to field a batted ball or has the ball in his possession, the umpire shall call obstruction. . . ."

Why was Stanky chased out of the game, his first ejection since June of 1952 and his first in 11 years by Conlan?

"I guess you can call it over anxiety in disputing a decision," said Stanky.

What Breed Should I Buy?

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

"What breed dog should I buy?"

When Andy asked this question he was re-echoing one asked me literally thousands of times a year—in person—by phone and by mail.

The usual follow-up to this question is "Why do you want the dog?" What do you want to use it for?" So I followed the routine with Andy.

If Andy had wanted a dog for a special purpose the choice would be narrowed down to the breeds most adequate for the purpose; the pointing breeds, sight hounds; scent hounds, flushing spaniels or what have you, according to their use—but I knew Andy didn't hunt so his choice could be made from a broader field.

"I just want a good companion around the house that will get along well with the youngsters," said Andy. "What breed makes the best family dog?"

"Andy," I said, "it is just as illogical to believe that all the dogs of one breed are bad and all the dogs of another are good as it is to assume that people are good, poor or indifferent depending on their nationality.

"There are, of course, some exceptions in dogdom that were bred specifically for a purpose requiring a temperament incompatible with ordinary living. We can draw an analogy to humans who have been molded to a particular form so that their behavior is distorted from the typical.

"The best way to select a family dog is to choose two or three breeds which you like, then look for a representative of this breed which has the qualities you desire.

"Well," said Andy, "I can think of four or five kinds of dogs I'd like to have, but I don't know how I'd describe the qualities I should be looking for.

"First, Andy, your dog must be in good health. The next requirement is good temperament. A bold, playful pup or a grown dog that seems to be unafraid and confident should fill the bill."

"Should I get a large or small dog, Joe?" was Andy's next question.

"In your case, Andy, the size is not important. Your kids are big enough and thoughtful enough to bring up a small dog or a small puppy. Take your friend next door, though, with his 15-months-old daughter. It would be so easy for her to fall backwards on a small dog or pup and injure it seriously or painfully. Little tots do plenty of exploring in eyes and ears with their fingers and think nothing of bopping a dog on the head with any toy they can swing. Such treatment is cruelty to animals, unintentional though it may be, and often results in dispositions and deportment which cannot be depended upon."

"The answer then," recapitulated Andy, "is to pick my breed and then find a fearless, friendly dog of that breed."

"That's right," I said, "get a dog without neuroses and keep him that way."

Pleads for Pitching Test, Rookie Tosses No-Hitter In First Major Loop Start

First Freshman to Do Trick Since 1892

St. Louis, May 7 (AP)—Rookie Bobo Holloman, who has banged on the manager's door for two weeks pleading for a starting assignment, threw the portal of fame wide open last night by pitching a no-hitter in his first major league start for the St. Louis Browns.

The 27-year-old right hander did it with fast balls, sinkers and curves—and some splendid fielding support—against the Philadelphia Athletics for a 6-0 triumph that's unmatched in modern baseball annals.

For two weeks Holloman has pleaded with Manager Marty Marion for a starting assignment. "I'm not a bullpen pitcher," said Holloman. "I'd rather be in the minors than in the bullpen."

"That's right," confirmed Marion. "He's come into my office every day asking 'when am I gonna start?'

"He sure made a bum out of me tonight!"

A beaming, sweating Holloman, his back still red from the pounding congratulations of fans who flooded the path from the dugout to the club house after the game, laughed for photographers and said "It's the greatest thrill of my life."

Ninth Was Tough

"Nervous? Not until the ninth. That was the tough one."

And tough it was. The pressure was on. The 2,473 fans who braved discouraging, rainy weather to see the game, sat almost completely silent as Bobo faced the plate for the final inning.

Holloman showed the strain by walking pinch-hitter Elmer Valo on four pitches. Then he tossed three more consecutive balls to Eddie Joost.

Veteran Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, one-time St. Louis Cardinal southpaw now with the Browns, walked to the mound to ease the tension. Holloman tossed a called strike. Then he walked Joost.

DP Big Help

But Dave Philley hit into a double play and the fans got to their feet.

It wasn't over yet, however. Holloman walked Loren Babe and with runners on first and third, Eddie Robinson, the big man in the A's lineup, took a toe hold in the batter's box.

Robinson missed the first pitch. He foul tipped the second. The third was rammed foul down the right field line.

The fourth pitch was hit high and deep to right field. And as it fell into Vic Wertz's glove the shouts of the fans and Browns rose to a roar.

That was it. The first time a pitcher had tossed a no-hitter his first time out since Charles Jones did it with Cincinnati in 1892.

It also was the first no-hitter won by a Brownie since 1917 when Ernie Koob and Robert Groom did it. In 1934, Bobo Newsom—whose nickname Holloman picked up—tossed nine hitless innings for the Browns, but lost in the 10th to Boston, 2-1.

It was 36 years to the day since Groom grabbed his fame in a 3-0 victory over Chicago on May 6, 1917.

Knew It in Fifth

When did Holloman know he had the no-hitter? "I realized I was going after it after they charged me with an error on that hopper of (Gus) Zernial's in the fifth."

A superstitious fellow, Holloman stooped to scratch the initials "N" and "G" in the dirt of the third base line each time he went to the mound. The initials represent the names of his wife, Nan, and his 6-year-old son, Gary. Both were in the stands last night.

Holloman, who drove in three runs himself with two singles, walked five and fanned three.

In his only previous appearances for the Browns this season—all in relief—Holloman allowed nine hits and five earned runs in 4 1/3 innings during three games.

Eugene Jacobs of Brooklyn saddled 13 winners to be the leading trainer at Hialeah during the winter season.

The SCOREBOARD

(By The Associated Press)

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobo Holloman of the St. Louis Browns pitched himself a no-hitter in his first major league start last (Wednesday) night. The big test now will be whether he can survive it.

Holloman, a fun-loving Georgian nicknamed after the last Brownie hurler to pitch a no-hitter, jumped from low man in the bullpen to pitching glory in nine hitless innings against the Philadelphia Athletics. He faced 31 men. Five of them walked and one reached first on Holloman's own error. St. Louis won, 6-0.

Faces Ancient Jinx

The big 27-year-old righthander now will have to whip the jinx that befell the last pitcher who opened his major league starting career with a hitless performance.

In 1892, far enough back that baseball historians don't recognize it as "modern times," Charley Jones broke in with Cincinnati with no-hitter against Pittsburgh, although Pittsburgh scored one run.

Jones won only one other major league game and was out of the big leagues in 1894.

Holloman's performance overshadowed the rest of the major league activity yesterday. Detroit defeated Washington, 8-4, and Chicago stopped Boston, 6-2, in the American League. Brooklyn whipped St. Louis, 7-3, and New York overcame Chicago, 8-5, in National League games. Cleveland and New York weren't scheduled in the American League while rain halted the other two National League games.

A cozy gathering of 2,473, including Holloman's wife Nan and their six-year-old son Gary Lee, witnessed the St. Louis spectacle and will be able to come back to see another game free.

Owner Bill Veeck told the small crowd he was grateful they had defied threatening weather and issued an invitation for them to use their rain checks to come back again sometime.

Holloman, whose given name is Alva, came up to the Browns this season after winning 16 and losing seven for Syracuse of the International League in 1952 and pitching Santurce of the Puerto Rican League to the Caribbean championship this winter. He won two big games in the Caribbean World Series in March and celebrated for two weeks, causing him to be the last Brownie to report to camp.

A good hitter for a pitcher, Holloman drove in three of the St. Louis runs on a pair of singles.

Pierce Cops Fourth

Billy Pierce of the White Sox, one of two American League pitchers to hurl a one-hitter this season, won his fourth game of the year as he set down the Red Sox on six hits. A pinch hit home run by Del Wilber with a runner on base cost him a shutout.

Ned Garver won his second straight for Detroit after three early season setbacks, scattering 10 Washington hits and driving in two of the Tigers' eight runs on a homer in the eighth inning.

Brooklyn, where "rhubarb" was first applied to a baseball argument, had another one last night. St. Louis finished the game under protest after a sixth inning set-to during which Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky and Catcher Del Rice were chased from the park.

They were ousted for arguing with Umpire Jocko Conlan who had waved Jackie Robinson home from third base after a collision with Cardinal Shortstop Solly Hemus. Hemus sprawled head first in the baseline, diving for a drive off the bat of Roy Campanella. Robinson, running from second, collided with him and fell down. Conlan ruled Hemus had obstructed the base runner.

The Giants battered six Chicago pitchers for 15 hits as they handed the Cubs their seventh straight loss.

New Brook Rhubarb Erupts On Obstruction Decision

Stanky Is Ousted, Protests Contest

By JOE REICHLER

Brooklyn, May 7 (AP)—Can a fielder obstruct a base runner while lying on the ground?

The question was raised by St. Louis Manager Eddie Stanky today following a decision by Umpire Jocko Conlan in last night's game between the Cardinals and Brooklyn won by the Dodgers, 7-3.

The decision set off a heated argument between Stanky and Conlan that resulted in the managers expulsion which was immediately followed by Stanky's official protest of the game.

Here is what happened.

The Dodgers were batting in the sixth inning with Duke Snider on third, Jackie Robinson on second and Roy Campanella at bat. Campy smashed a hard grounder to the right of shortstop Solly Hemus, scoring Snider.

Hemus dove headlong for the ball which eluded his glove. Robinson collided with him while he was on the ground and he, too, was knocked down, but regained his feet and stumbled to third.

Third base umpire Tom Gorman made no call on the play but Conlan ran down the base line and waved Jackie home, ruling that Hemus had obstructed the runner. Stanky catapulted out of the dugout and argued in vain with Conlan. The expulsion and protest followed.

"I based my judgment on obstruction," Conlan explained later. "The ball was past the infield. I don't say that it was intentional but Hemus already had a chance to field the ball and Robinson couldn't change his direction."

Stanky Hits Roof

Stanky hit the roof when Conlan's explanation was relayed to him.

"Hemus was diving after the ball," he said. "How he can obstruct anybody while lying on the ground I don't know. The way I see it, the rule applies only to intent of interference or obstruction. Even Conlan admits there was no intent.

"I can't understand Conlan. He's a very good umpire, one of the best and I have the utmost respect for him. But he blew that one. Heck, there were three other umpires on the field and he has to call it from home plate. Why didn't Gorman rule obstruction? He was closest to the play. How can the plate umpire call it?

"At first he said it was either an interference, obstruction or judgment play. Then after he has time to think it over, he settles for obstruction. That a good batting average, one out of three, .333."

The versions of Hemus and Robinson differed somewhat too.

"I dove for the ball and was lying on the ground," said Hemus. "The next thing I knew he (Robinson) kicked me in the head."

Tried to Avoid Hemus

"I had a clear path," said Robinson, "and the next thing I knew I was trying to avoid him (Hemus).

"I saw him lying on the ground. I don't say I saw him back up. I don't know what happened. I don't say he did it intentionally. But Solly will do anything he possibly can to win a game. He's a great team player. If he had gotten away with it, it would have been a great play."

Rule 706 (A) states: "A batter who has become a runner is entitled to unimpeded progress as he advances around the bases. Whenever a defensive player impedes the runner in any way, unless he is attempting to field a batted ball or has the ball in his possession, the umpire shall call obstruction. . . ."

Why was Stanky chased out of the game, his first ejection since June of 1952 and his first in 11 years by Conlan?

"I guess you can call it over anxiety in disputing a decision," said Stanky.

What Breed Should I Buy?

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

"What breed dog should I buy?"

When Andy asked this question he was re-echoing one asked me literally thousands of times a year—in person—by phone and by mail.

The usual follow-up to this question is "Why do you want the dog?" What do you want to use it for?" So I followed the routine with Andy.

If Andy had wanted a dog for a special purpose the choice would be narrowed down to the breeds most adequate for the purpose; the pointing breeds, sight hounds; scent hounds, flushing spaniels or what have you, according to their use—but I knew Andy didn't hunt so his choice could be made from a broader field.

"I just want a good companion around the house that will get along well with the youngsters," said Andy. "What breed makes the best family dog?"

"Andy," I said, "it is just as illogical to believe that all the dogs of one breed are bad and all the dogs of another are good as it is to assume that people are good, poor or indifferent depending on their nationality.

"There are, of course, some exceptions in dogdom that were bred specifically for a purpose requiring a temperament incompatible with ordinary living. We can draw an analogy to humans who have been molded to a particular form so that their behavior is distorted from the typical.

"The best way to select a family dog is to choose two or three breeds which you like, then look for a representative of this breed which has the qualities you desire.

"Well," said Andy, "I can think of four or five kinds of dogs I'd like to have, but I don't know how I'd describe the qualities I should be looking for.

"First, Andy, your dog must be in good health. The next requirement is good temperament. A bold, playful pup or a grown dog that seems to be unafraid and confident should fill the bill."

"Should I get a large or small dog, Joe?" was Andy's next question.

"In your case, Andy, the size is not important. Your kids are big enough and thoughtful enough to bring up a small dog or a small puppy. Take your friend next door, though, with his 15-months-old daughter. It would be so easy for her to fall backwards on a small dog or pup and injure it seriously or painfully. Little tots do plenty of exploring in eyes and ears with their fingers and think nothing of bopping a dog on the head with any toy they can swing. Such treatment is cruelty to animals, unintentional though it may be, and often results in dispositions and deportment which cannot be depended upon."

"The answer then," recapitulated Andy, "is to pick my breed and then find a fearless, friendly dog of that breed."

"That's right," I said, "get a dog without neuroses and keep him that way."

DON'T CUSS YOUR TIRES
IF YOU GET POOR MILEAGE!

Maybe you're not giving them a square deal. If they are allowed to Roll, and ROLL SMOOTHLY, down the road they will give you thousands upon thousands of miles of wear. But, if the wheels of your car are out-of-line and out-of-balance, the tires are scuffed, dragged and pounded along, wasteful and rapid wear is the result. Be fair to your tires. Come in for a wheel alinement and balance inspection.

Woodstock, May 7—At the annual school meeting of Woodstock District No. 2, held at the school Tuesday night, the new budget presented by the school board was approved by a vote of 53 to 1. A motion passed that an addition of $250 be added to the $500 appropriated for adult education, for vocational adult education.

Mrs. Leo Herbert will be the accompanist. Other acts to be included in the show will be announced.

Funds raised by the Woodstock P-TA are spent to provide an annual party for the graduating class, to cover the expenses of the Christmas play, and to purchase educational prizes for classrooms which have the highest attendance of parents at the monthly P-TA meetings. Five Negroes Start Terms in Council

Charlotte, N. C., May 7 (AP)—At least five Negroes started terms yesterday as councilmen in five North Carolina towns. Four were the first to hold such positions since reconstruction days.

The only repeater was Dr. William Hampton, re-elected to Greensboro's city council in one of scores of tar heel municipal elections yesterday.

One of the Negroes, Dentist G. K. Butterfield, won his seat on the Wilson city commission by the luck of the draw. Butterfield and incumbent Commissioner Herbert H. Harriss, Jr., each got 382 votes. The city charter calls for settling ties by lot, and 3-year-old Derba Watson pulled Butterfield's name out of a hat as the election board watched.

Sam Barber of Gastonia and R. N. Harris, a Durham insurance company official, also won council seats.

Approximately 30 other Negro candidates failed in their bids for city offices.

Among them was Kelly M. Alexander of Charlotte, state president of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People. He and Arthur S. Grier, also a Negro, ran ninth and 10th in a field of 11 council candidates.

Fog Hampers Travel

New York, May 7 (AP)—Fog cover much of the city's area today, playing hob with ferry, ship and plane schedules. Visibility and ceiling was zero at the Battery at 6 a. m. (EST). The Weather Bureau said: "Even the sea gulls aren't flying." Heavy fog forced suspension of normal operations at Idlewild Airport. Air lines reported take-off and landing delays of up to three hours. The Italian liner Andrea Doria, scheduled to dock at 9 a. m., was unreported at Ambrose Light, and at 7 a. m., the coast guard canceled sending out the usual cutter with immigration and public health officials to meet the ship.

Red Cross Anniversary

Washington, May 7 (AP)—The American Red Cross will observe tomorrow the 125th anniversary of the birth of Henry Dunant, Swiss founder of the International Red Cross. Dunant saw the bloody battle of Solferino in the Franco-Austrian War of 1859, and was moved to take the lead in calling an international conference on the care of battle wounded. Out of the conference grew the International Red Cross and the first Geneva convention, in 1864.

Five Negroes Start Terms in Council

Charlotte, N. C., May 7 (AP)—At least five Negroes started terms yesterday as councilmen in five North Carolina towns. Four were the first to hold such positions since reconstruction days.

Hubert S. Robinson, a janitor at the University of North Carolina, led the vote in Tuesday's election for three of six members of the board of aldermen at Chapel Hill. Robinson, a former employe in the home of Dr. Frank P. Graham, former president of the university, polled 571 votes. The runner up with 560 votes was Dr. Paul Wager, member of the university faculty.

Most town elections were nonpartisan.

The only repeater was Dr. William Hampton, re-elected to Greensboro's city council in one of scores of tar heel municipal elections yesterday.

One of the Negroes, Dentist G. K. Butterfield, won his seat on the Wilson city commission by the luck of the draw. Butterfield and incumbent Commissioner Herbert H. Harriss, Jr., each got 382 votes. The city charter calls for settling ties by lot, and 3-year-old Derba Watson pulled Butterfield's name out of a hat as the election board watched.

Sam Barber of Gastonia and R. N. Harris, a Durham insurance company official, also won council seats.

Approximately 30 other Negro candidates failed in their bids for city offices.

Among them was Kelly M. Alexander of Charlotte, state president of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People. He and Arthur S. Grier, also a Negro, ran ninth and 10th in a field of 11 council candidates.

Fog Hampers Travel

New York, May 7 (AP)—Fog cover much of the city's area today, playing hob with ferry, ship and plane schedules. Visibility and ceiling was zero at the Battery at 6 a. m. (EST). The Weather Bureau said: "Even the sea gulls aren't flying." Heavy fog forced suspension of normal operations at Idlewild Airport. Air lines reported take-off and landing delays of up to three hours. The Italian liner Andrea Doria, scheduled to dock at 9 a. m., was unreported at Ambrose Light, and at 7 a. m., the coast guard canceled sending out the usual cutter with immigration and public health officials to meet the ship.

Red Cross Anniversary

Washington, May 7 (AP)—The American Red Cross will observe tomorrow the 125th anniversary of the birth of Henry Dunant, Swiss founder of the International Red Cross. Dunant saw the bloody battle of Solferino in the Franco-Austrian War of 1859, and was moved to take the lead in calling an international conference on the care of battle wounded. Out of the conference grew the International Red Cross and the first Geneva convention, in 1864.
